ARMS EMBARGO REPEAL SESSION EXPECTED OCT. 2

Canada Is Added to Belligerent List.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Sources close to President Roosevelt disclosed tonight that he will issue a call during the coming week for a special session of congress to consider his proposal to repeal the arms embargo provision of the neutrality act. A likely date for the convening of congress, it was indicated, is Oct. 2.

Earlier today the state department had issued a proclamation by Mr. Roosevelt adding Canada to the list of belligerents to which the export of arms, ammunition, and implements of war is prohibited by the neutrality act. This action came less than three hours after Canada's declaration of war on Germany.

The warring countries now on the arms embargo list are Germany, Poland, France, the United Kingdom Australia, New Zealand, India, the Union of South Africa, and Canada.

The Canadian declaration of war, which left President Roosevelt no alternative but to extend the application of the neutrality act, closes a possible avenue for the circumvention of the law by means of trans-shipping American munitions through Canada to the Anglo-French alliance.

Closes Vast Resources.

It also closes to Canada, for the equipment of its own military forces, the vast munitions resources of the United States.

President Roosevelt, who strongly opposes what he calls "the so-called neutrality act," had announced that he would not extend its application to Canada unless and until the British dominion declared war. The President never has invoked the neutrality act in the undeclared Japanese-Chinese war.

Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King wanted to take advantage of Mr. Roosevelt's hint and coöperate with Great Britain in the prosecution of the war without a formal declaration of war. His hand was forced, however, by a powerful public opinion which demanded a declaration of war. The Toronto Globe and Mail said Canada needed equipment, but not at the price of hypocrisy, and would not "resort deliberately to subterfuge to get supplies."

Another Proclamation.

Besides invoking the neutrality act with respect to Canada, Mr. Roosevelt proclaimed the neutrality of the United States in the war between Canada and Germany. This proclamation, identical with the one issued with respect to the other belligerents on Sept. 5, is based upon international and domestic law and prohibits the commission of unneutral acts in the United States, its possessions and territorial waters.

Canada having declared war, the

BORAH REVIEWS HUGE LOSSES INEVITABLE IF AMERICA ENTERS WAR

Poland Springs, Me., Sept. 10 [Special].—"For every dollar you lose by staying out of this war, you'll lose hundreds of thousands by going in," Senator William E. Borah, Republican of Idaho, asserted today as he prepared to end his four weeks' vacation and return to Washington.

"How do you think the average American family feels about losing all of its savings, if necessary, compared with having an insane or crippled boy on their hands for the next twenty years?" Senator Borah said.

"In all probability, the greatest possible service we will be able to render in this war is in being a great neutral power, a representative of peace, honor and justice. In the world war we got rid of the kaiser, but got Hitler instead. In the meantime, we spend forty billions and our boys are dead, maimed and insane. Those who did not go and who do not intend to go now are the very ones most anxious for our boys to try it again."

In a message regretting his inability to speak at a neutrality rally in St. Louis, Mo., Senator Borah charged that "powerful interests are active in efforts to draw us into the conflict."

COUNTERDRIVE HALTS ADVANCE OF PARIS TROOPS

France Hits Back in Vosges Hills.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Sept. 11 (Monday) (AP).—An air raid alarm was sounded at 4:10 a. m. today (10:10 p. m., Sunday, Chicago time). The all-clear signal followed 67 minutes later. This was the fourth alarm of the war and the first since introduction of the new policy of sounding a warning only when Paris is in imminent danger of attack.

PARIS, Sept. 10 (AP). — German troops were reported tonight striking into the triangle formed by the junction of the Moselle and Saar rivers on the extreme northern flank of the western front, where French troops have advanced farthest into the Saarland.

Fifty miles to the southeast, a general staff communique announced, French troops were advancing on a twenty mile sector between the Saar river, where it cuts across the frontier into French territory, and the foothills of the Vosges mountains.

Between these two sectors German counterattacks from the shelter of a maze of coal mine galleries of the Saar basin apparently had halted the French advance. Here the French line rested parallel to the Saar river, which lies a few miles within German territory.

Fight Near French Border.

The official communique describing the German counteroffensive follows:

"On the front a series of methodical actions permitted advances between the Saar and the Vosges.

"The enemy outlined an offensive movement east of Moselle in the region northeast of Sierck.

"French and English naval forces swept out mine barrages from certain zones in the English channel and the North sea.

"Our aerial reconnaissance continued during the day."

The fact that the communique added the German offensive was in the "region northeast of Sierck" gave the impression the Germans were attacking close to the French frontier. Sierck lies on the Moselle just inside the French border at the Luxemburg and German frontiers.

Neutral on Right Flank.

Apparently the Germans, following French tactics, were using the neutral Luxemburg frontier as a cover for their right flank, just as the French did for their left flank in their drive in the direction of the German city of Trier.

On the front between the German towns of Merzig and Saarbruecken, the German counterattacks from the coal pits apparently had halted the French.

The Germans made their counterattack with reënforcements that marched along galleries hewn out of

VENUS DE MILO STATUE SEALED IN SANDBAGS AS BOMB PROTECTION

PARIS, Sept. 10.—The famous Venus de Milo and Winged Victory statues, which are too fragile to be transported to places of safety, have been inclosed with sandbags which will insure their preservation against anything but a direct hit where they stand in the Louvre gallery. Some paintings too large or too difficult to transport are being covered by metal screens.

Nearly all of France's priceless art treasures now have been conveyed to places of safety. For two weeks 150 trucks and a staff of several thousand experts and volunteers have been working night and day on this job.

The works were taken from the Louvre, the Luxemburg, Carnavalet, Trocadero, and Galliera Institut de France museums, and the National library and National archives. The rich stained glass collections of Sainte Chapelle and all leading cathedrals are in safety. Tapestries and furniture in the Mobilier National are stored out of danger.

BRITISH FLEET HOLDS FIRE; SMALL SHIPS WAGE FIGHT UPON U-BOATS

No Major Actions During Last Week, London Asserts.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 10.—News of the British navy's part in the war was revealed tonight in a ministry of information announcement.

The announcement said that "during the first week of the war there have been no major naval operations."

It indicated that the bulk of activity so far has been confined to small craft, such as destroyers, escort patrol ships, and mine sweepers.

The ministry's statement said that British naval ships had been particularly busy scouring the seas around the British Isles and in the Atlantic in an effort to check the German U-boat menace.

[Three more British ships yesterday were officially reported to have been sunk, bringing the total English losses for the war up to twelve.]

Says Enemy Driven to Cover.

"While we have incurred the loss of various merchant ships through submarine operations," the ministry stated, "many more enemy merchantmen have been captured or driven to take refuge in neutral harbors in many parts of the world."

[The German government last night broadcast a warning to all ships to stay out of three danger zones near the mouth of the Baltic sea. The first zone is situated between the Danish island of Zeeland and the southernmost tip of Sweden. The second zone lies between the Danish island of Fuenen, and Zeeland. The third zone is between Southern Jutland and Fuenen. Presumably, these zones have been mined.]

The British today set up additional contraband control services at Gibraltar and examination stations at Alexandria in Egypt and at Trincomali in Ceylon.

Threatens Forced Searching.

The government initiated the contraband control system last Friday. At that time it urged all vessels bound for Germany, or neutral ports from which goods could be shipped to Germany, to call at these bases voluntarily for inspection.

Ships which did not call voluntarily, the government said, would be liable to be diverted to a base by warships in cases where adequate search at sea was not practicable.

Drastic cut in railroad services will come into operation tomorrow as an emergency measure. Suburban services to London have been reduced 25 per cent in some cases and many main line services have been curtailed. Continental air lines which have been operating regularly from Holland and Belgium to England were closed down indefinitly today.

Trades Union Congress Meets.

When parliament reassembles on Wednesday Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is expected to make another speech surveying war operations. Meanwhile the Trades Union Congress meets tomorrow in London to decide its attitude toward the new government bill giving the minister of labor wide powers to control labor.

CARRYING GAS MASKS, LONDON WORSHIPERS OFFER PEACE PRAYERS

LONDON, Sept. 10. — Worshipers carrying gas masks prayed for peace in London churches today. Most churches held services, but some evening services were abandoned because of the nightly blackout.

At Westminster abbey, where the evening service was discontinued, there was continuous intercession for peace during the day. Many prayed at the unknown warrior's tomb. Shelters have been provided for any of the congregation present during an air raid.

St. Paul's cathedral is regarded as dangerous for shelter. Its doors will be closed when a raid alarm is sounded and persons inside may take refuge in the crypt or leave.

Germany Taming Its Beer to Save Barley Reserve

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—Breweries will turn out a greater amount of 2½ and 3 per cent beer, it is announced, in order to stretch Germany's barley reserves.

Paris Dusts Off '14 Gayety, but Still Practical

PARIS, Sept. 10 (AP).—Parisians, never ones to cry over the good old days, already are swinging into the new wartime stride.

Many enterprises forced to close when their staffs were mobilized are reopening with older men. The music halls are calling back retired troupers. They hope to be running full tilt when soldiers return on their first furloughs. There is a demand for comedians who can imitate Hitler.

"Les Tommies" are the topic of the hour, now that British soldiers once again are helping France against Germany.

"English Beer Sold Here," "Roast Beef, 10 Francs," and "Welcome to Our Valiant Allies" are some of the signs Paris has prepared.

Name Fish After Chamberlain.

One restaurant even named an entrée after the British prime minister fisherman, calling it "Trout Chamberlain."

More taxicabs are appearing on the streets again, since they are not needed for mobilization, but there are fewer places to which to take them. Paris is an 11 o'clock town—all cafés close then. Movies must complete their programs by 8:30 p. m.

Parisians do not lack, however, for ways to occupy themselves. Many women have abandoned cocktail soirées in favor of sock knitting parties. Even the principal couturiers are working on uniforms and designing simple "air raid" costumes, quickly zipped together, so milady can arrive chic at a refuge shelter within five minutes after an alarm sounds.

On the less frivolous side, military tribunals have been set up in the palace of justice because martial law is in force throughout the country.

Drive Against Profiteering.

The government began a drive against war profiteering, especially among wine merchants alleged to have raised the price of wine sold to troops from 3 francs 15 centimes to 7 francs. Some gas mask dealers were accused of making an 85 per cent profit.

The United States liner President Harding, which is turning around at Le Havre to take stranded Americans home, unloaded approximately 12,000 tons of merchandise, most of which was destined for Hamburg.

On the matrimonial front, there was the traditional rush. The three day banns regulation has been canceled and couples are getting wed on an average of one every three minutes.

Nazis Hammer Capital with 40 Air Attacks

WAR MAPS.

On the back page are maps showing where the German army is counterattacking on the north flank of the western front and where the French claim a new advance between the Saar river and the Vosges mountains on the south. There is also a map of Poland showing resources gained by Germany in territory already occupied and the resources in the territory still in the control of the Poles.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 11 [Monday] (AP). —Warsaw was subjected to an all-day airplane, tank and artillery attack yesterday as invading German armies tried to take the capital, the Warsaw radio stated early today.

Polish staff Capt. Vaclav Lipinski broadcast that German heavy artillery had bombarded the city from dawn to dusk and that German tanks had attacked the city in droves. Earlier the radio said forty air raids were made on the city during the day.

[A Polish radio broadcast, heard in Copenhagen yesterday, asserted German troops had been defeated in the suburbs of Warsaw. A later broadcast said the fighting was continuing despite several repulses administered to the Germans.]

Fifteen Bombers Shot Down.

Capt. Lipinski said Polish anti-aircraft batteries had destroyed fifteen German bombers which fell into the city proper and its suburbs, and declared the defenders had captured many Germans, "including the crews of two tanks which were destroyed."

The attack had been underway for nineteen hours when Capt. Lipinski came on the air shortly after midnight.

The first air raid came at 5 a. m. and was followed by a second at 9:14 in which seventy Nazi bombers were reported roaring over the city.

"After sunset," said the officer, "German tanks in droves attacked Warsaw from the suburbs, but were driven back. Two of them were destroyed and their crews taken prisoner."

"An Inferno of Bombs."

In what apparently was a masterpiece of understatement, Capt. Lipinski said: "There is considerable noise."

The Warsaw announcer on the air before the captain said the capital was an inferno of bursting bombs, and that the screams of wounded and dying could be heard between blasts.

The Germans were said to have "parachuted spies into the city."

The long attack came on the third day of the German siege of the capital, and last night Polish announcers at Lwow said that their important southeastern industrial city, capital of Polish Ukraine, was preparing for a similar siege.

Wail of Sirens Heard.

Over both the Warsaw and Lwow radios came repeated high-pitched screams of air raid sirens and sometimes the whines of motors of diving planes could be heard.

Announcers said the civilians of both cities, including aged men and women and little children, were helping their soldiers to fight back the attackers.

Earlier the Polish army general headquarters declared in a radio broadcast that "our soldiers are fighting valiantly and making a great defense on all fronts. Warsaw is

HITLER PICKS SENATE OF 22 WHO MAY RULE IF TWO LEADERS DIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—Adolf Hitler is forming the senate which, according to his statement to the reichstag, may some day take over executive power in Germany. This would happen if Hitler's two successors, first Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering and then Rudolf Hess, his deputy, died before they could assume power. This senate will be composed of twenty-two members. Seven of them are being chosen from the Nazi party, seven from the armed forces, and the remainder from among persons outstanding in public life.

NAZIS HAIL RED ARMY CALL; SEE BLOW AT POLAND

War Plan Is Worked Out, Berlin Hears.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—For Germans today the major event was the official soviet Russian announcement of the calling up of several classes of reserves and their hurried transport toward the Russian border.

Germans asserted that in conferences between Nazi military authorities and the special military envoy recently sent to Berlin from Moscow a plan of action has been worked out between the general staffs of soviet Russia and Nazi Germany.

Germans assert this was not necessary in view of the rapid advance of German troops into the heart of Poland, but because Germany wants to be able to transport "war experienced divisions" to the western front as soon as possible, the Russian mobilization causes the greatest satisfaction.

Don't Want Italy In.

While Germans show satisfaction with their Moscow allies, they take great pains to explain that Adolf Hitler "does not want Italy to take a hand in the present struggle. He made this clear in his reichstag speech. By keeping out of the present conflict Italy is able to give us greater practical help than if she joins the fight—at least as matters stand now."

Military authorities today announced that they had seized the big fortifications of Lodz and that part of their troops were advancing rapidly while others had encircled large Polish forces.

In three centers the Germans declare that they have encircled the Poles and that "these Polish forces will meet with their destiny within the next few days."

Poles Encircled.

The usual matter-of-fact official military bulletin declared that German troops encircled Polish forces near Radom, in the triangle formed by Skierniewice, Sochaczew and Kutno, and between Plock and Wloclawek. Heavy fighting continued near Lomza and east of that city. The Germans succeeded in gaining a foothold on the southern bank of the Bug river.

While previous reports alleged that the Polish air force had been completely wiped out, today's bulletin reported that mixed units of German combat and bombing planes shot down seven Polish planes in an attack on Lublin, temporary capital of the Polish government, and severely damaged eight Polish planes on the ground.

The German airforce helped cut off retreat of the Poles towards the famous swamps of Pinsk and Brest Litovsk by bombing roads and railroads, it was also said.

Admit Action in West.

Germans assert that even if a big detachment of Polish troops manages to escape into the region, Germany's modern weapons will make it impossible for the Poles to resist, especially if Russia begins pressing their eastern flank.

For the first time the German high command today admitted action took place on the western border. It spoke of "French reconnaissance units which crossed the German border and clashed with German outposts far from the real western fortifications. The enemy left many dead and prisoners, including one officer," it was asserted.

Troop trains are passing through Berlin and other cities transporting German troops from the eastern to the western front.

Gdynia Still Holds Out.

Germans assert that the Polish government was sent from Lublin to Lemberg [Lwow], but "we don't expect they will be able to stay there long."

Gdynia, the Polish port beside Danzig, still is holding out despite heavy bombings from all sides.

The commander in chief of the German forces issued an appeal to the Polish population to abandon the "franctireur war" [sharpshooting], warning snipers that certain death awaits them. This appeal was broadcast over all radio stations and German planes will scatter leaflets over the whole country with the same warning

WARSAW IS TORN BY 40 AIR RAIDS; TANKS ATTACK

In official quarters it was asserted that if the population of Warsaw continued to resist and took up arms, the city "might no longer be considered an open city but might be treated as a fortified city."

Cars Halted in Berlin.

In Berlin today special motorized squads were stopping cars and examining the drivers and passengers. Foreigners with credentials got by relatively easy, but Germans had to undergo severe cross-examinations.

A German news agency [D. N. B.] dispatch today reported "extraordinary daring" by a squadron of German bombers which rescued the crew of one plane that had been forced to make a landing behind Polish lines at Dyskow, near Tluscz.

D. N. B. said the plane, which developed motor trouble, landed in a field. As the Poles rushed out to seize it other ships in the squadron forced them back with bombs. One machine then landed beside the disabled plane, and it was set afire. Then the crew escaped in the rescue plane.

Hitler Flies Over Front.

BERLIN, Sept. 10 (AP).—An official German news agency dispatch from the eastern front stated that Adolf Hitler had made an extended airplane flight over the battlefield today.

His first flight over the eastern front took Hitler over the Kielce-Radom region where just west of the Vistula river several Polish divisions were declared surrounded. Hitler followed the route of the retreating Polish army in the direction of Warsaw.

It was disclosed that the Fuehrer has moved his headquarters from the Polish corridor [Pomorze], where military action is regarded as just about complete, to the army group in Silesia which conducted the offensive against Czestochowa, Kielce, and Radom.

Capture 24,000 Poles.

The official D. N. B. dispatch reported the prison camp at Kielce was filled to overflowing, with a sign on the gate reading, "No room. Please take new prisoners farther back." D. N. B. said 24,000 Poles had been captured today in the Radom sector.

The riddle of German claims to having entered Warsaw was explained, at least in part, by a government spokesman who said motorized forces penetrated to the center of the Polish capital yesterday and then met the difficulty of German troops everywhere in Poland—sniping.

The spokesman said this was a spearhead detachment and it was considered wise to withdraw to the city's outskirts while awaiting main German forces heading toward Warsaw from the north, west, and south. Authorities took the position that once sniping begins a city must be regarded as opened to the invading forces.

[Developments late Friday night indicated that Warsaw radio station No. 1 had been destroyed by the advancing Germans. Then a German station began using the wave band of Warsaw No. 1, broadcasting assertions that Germans had entered Warsaw and saying there was a reign of terror in the city. THE TRIBUNE'S Riga correspondent discovered the ruse when Warsaw station No. 2 came on the air, contradicting the German claims.]

French in Air Battle.

The western front communique confirmed previous reports that an undisclosed number of French planes encountered German aerial fighters. Three French planes were said to have been shot down.

It was apparent from the communique on operations in Poland that the air force again was playing an important part by blocking roads with well-aimed bombs, destroying sections of railroads, and blowing to bits such ground organization and plants as the Polish air force still had in the Lomza section [northeast of Warsaw on the Narew river].

Parallel with Germany's drive through Poland a diplomatic offensive of prime dimensions has been on foot to wean the French away from England.

ready for a long defense," the announcement said.

In another broadcast a speaker identified as Mayor Starzinski said the city's population, described as "mostly old people," was beginning to feel the pinch of hunger but nevertheless was working hard to supply food for the soldiers.

Try to Put Out Fires.

Boys and girls were reported to be struggling with water buckets to put out fires and aiding old men and women to pile up street barricades.

Both the Warsaw station and the Polish station at Lwow called upon the residents of Lwow to prepare to resist as the defenders of Warsaw are doing.

[Lwow was reported bombed for several hours Saturday night by German aircraft and one section of the city was reported in flames.]

The radio announcer called upon Lwow, like Warsaw, to dig trenches and erect barricades in the streets. He said German troops were rapidly pushing toward Lwow in an attempt to cut Poland's communication with her southern neighbors, Rumania and Hungary.

Called to Aid Defense.

Instructions already issued to the civilian population of Warsaw were repeated for the population of Lwow:

"Help the soldiers defend the city; remain calm; defend Lwow with bare hands against the German hordes if necessary."

Mothers in both Warsaw and Lwow were told to sew their children's names on their clothes as well as to pin papers to their clothes giving dates of their vaccinations.

The Germans started intermittently "jamming" both the Warsaw and Lwow radios early last evening and then broadcasting pro-Nazi news on the same wave lengths.

The Warsaw radio warned citizens of the capital: "Don't pick up wads of bank notes dropped into the streets by German aviators." There was no further explanation.

Bar Further Refugees.

Mayor Starzinski of Warsaw alluded to a food pinch and requested the population to start communal kitchens.

He said food would be sold only in small quantities in the shops and that no more refugees will be permitted to enter the city which already is swollen to 2 million—far beyond its normal population of a million and a quarter.

The speaker repeated a request which runs like a theme through all Polish broadcasts:

"Citizens, keep the streets clean of wreckage; sweep up the wreckage as quickly as it is made."

The speaker read a government order banning the sale of alcohol henceforth.

"In these troubled days many of you have been forced to flee your homes. We appeal to you to remain where you are and particularly out of choked towns and cities," a Lwow announcer said.

Historic Moment at Hand.

The Warsaw announcer later said: "The most important historic moment for Poland has come with the siege of Warsaw. Future generations will learn in school what you are going through now and will praise you for your heroism. Your heroism under incendiary bombs and a hail of explosives shows you are unafraid."

The speaker described "Sunday life in besieged Warsaw."

"Shopkeepers are selling their goods, although they would prefer to sell rifles and ammunition to shoot our besiegers. Intellectuals are digging ditches and elegant women without rouge or nail polish sweep wreckage and cook for the soldiers.

"Warsaw is now well into the war swing," he added. "Those good, old red street cars are serving well as barricades over which the rich and poor fraternize.

"Sleepers are so accustomed to the noise of explosions now that they wake up when there is a moment of quiet. Every one wants a place in this hour which history will commemorate forever," the broadcaster declared.

Plan Thrust in Ukraine.

JASINA, Hungary, on the Hungarian-Polish border, Sept. 10 (AP) [Via Budapest].—Strong German forces advancing into Poland from Slovakia were reported today to be planning a bayonet-like thrust eastward across the rich Ukraine, designed to cut that province off from the rest of Poland.

As a prelude to an expected German drive to cut the railway linking Poland and Rumania, German war planes were heavily bombing and strafing cities and towns along the railways and highways through a large area, including the Ukraine capital, Lwow.

Soviet Russia and Rumania were rushing troops to their Polish frontiers as a precaution against any eventuality, including possible interment of any Polish troops cut off and forced across the borders.

City Prepares for Worst.

Driving through Lwow, on his journey out of Warsaw, an Associated Press correspondent saw that city of 350,000 prepared for the worst.

The city was blacked out completely at night, forcing persons to grope about in the streets.

The only activity was at the railway stations where reservists were boarding trains to meet the German onslaught.

During the day peasants carried on their golden harvest of corn, pumpkins, and sunflowers along roads packed with refugees fleeing confusion.

With war surging toward the borders, Rumania was extremely apprehensive of her neutrality, since the Rumanian oil fields would provide a worthwhile prize for both Poland and Germany.

Rumanians asserted that German, French, and British spies and agents were already in the oil fields, prepared to blow up the wells if Rumania made a move considered favorable to either side.

Wide Bombing Raids.

SNIATYN, Poland, on the Polish-Rumanian Frontier, Sept. 10 (AP) [Via Budapest].—The Polish army today worked to reorganize itself further along a new defense line skirting the Vistula river.

Polish troops were marching by night and concealing themselves by day in an effort to reorganize and establish a new defense against the invaders.

Many observers believe that the Polish cause, as judged by meager reports, was not lost. Military experts say this depended in part on whether the Polish army, stunned by the shock of the terrific German offensive, could stabilize itself in time.

There was not even an estimate of Polish casualties. There was evidence that the Poles had managed to save the bulk of their mechanized equipment.

At the same time, it was estimated that a million men were being massed on the east bank of the Vistula, while others were being prepared for a defensive stand along the Bug river.

The Day's News of War in Europe

Activities in the European war yesterday narrowed down to the western and Polish fronts and to a few capitals of nations now neutral. Southeastern European nations, hopeful they could escape the war, are becoming pessimistic and are mobilizing troops.

FLIES FIRST PICTURES OF BOMBING RAIDS ON WARSAW PAST NAZIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 10.—Unshaven for a week but happy at being safely in Sweden with the first war pictures from Warsaw, Eric George Calcraft arrived here yesterday from Riga, Latvia.

He brought about 100 pictures of the first bombing raids on Warsaw and a story of how the plane in which he flew to Riga with seven other passengers was attacked by German aircraft. The plane, a swift American Lockheed, outdistanced the German planes and landed safely despite eight bullet holes in the wings.

The pictures Calcraft brought were the first real war photos from Poland received in Stockholm.

GERMANS RUSH MORE WOMEN TO ARMS FACTORIES

Teach Cooking Tricks to Spare Food.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—Germany's woman power is being mobilized with increasing speed and thoroughness, with yesterday's speech by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering stressing importance of women in war, adding impetus to the drive.

Women workers in many factories have been told to report for jobs in munitions factories. This will leave only a quarter of the women employés in many of the non-war industries.

Taught to Cook Sparingly.

Courses in economy are being organized to teach housewives to save on soap and to cook sparingly. This is in line with orders to slash consumption to strengthen the so-called home front.

Many German city girls between the ages of 17 and 25 soon must move into the country as the result of a decree published by the defense council. This decree increases the number of women for compulsory labor service to 100,000. Under the decree, the reich labor leader may draft unmarried girls of these ages who do not have full time jobs, who are not taking vocational or educational training, or who are not urgently needed by the farm families to which they had been assigned as part time workers.

Girls Called for Red Cross.

Importance of women in wartime, as stressed by Fuehrer Hitler and Goering, also is illustrated by another measure summoning 35,000 17 year old members of the Nazi girls' organization to help with Red Cross work.

The number of women nurses in Germany is increasing hourly as a result of Goering's statement yesterday that nursing was the first duty of German women in wartime.

Many more women are working in barber shops here. Heretofore girls were allowed only to lather customers' faces, but now they may shave them. The girls, however, must sacrifice their long fingernails, since the men claim they interfere with barbering.

BLIND MAN, 84, DIES IN FALL.

Solomon Jones, 84 years old, who was blind for twelve years, was killed yesterday when he fell down a flight of stairs in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Blunderfield on Higgins road, half a mile east of Mannheim road in Maine township.

RUSSIA SPEEDS RESERVE TROOPS TO POLISH BORDER

Reveal Thousands Called for Army Duty.

MOSCOW, Sept. 10 (AP).—Thousands of reserve troops poured through Moscow today bound for the west after soviet Russia for the first time disclosed officially that reservists had been called to the colors.

Tass, soviet official news agency, announced that "in connection with the German-Polish war which is assuming a more and more wide and threatening character," the soviet had called up reservists in the Ukraine, White Russia, Leningrad, Moscow, Kalinin and Orel military districts.

Many regular trains were running late as a result of the westward movement of troops.

Requisition Supplies.

While most of the reservists were in uniform, some wore civilian clothes as they boarded the trains.

Official confirmation that reserves were being called up coincided with other developments of a preparatory nature.

Russia continued strengthening her western frontier. It was understood the government was requisitioning certain supplies in large quantities, especially sugar. She moved to put her foreign trade on a virtual "cash and carry" basis.

War and raw materials were being rushed to the western border where there appeared the possibility of Germany's establishing a frontier with the soviet union. The two nations had a common frontier before the Polish republic was created.

Press Attacks England.

The soviet press, at the same time, attacked the "unfriendly actions of England in regard to the U. S. S. R." asserting that Britain had violated friendly trade relations.

It was claimed that several British firms had canceled production of lathes and presses ordered by the soviet. A Tass statement concluded that "the actions of English firms and British government organs are blowing up trade between the U. S. S. R. and England."

While Russia maintained an outward calm as she watched the war between capitalistic powers of western Europe, there were indications she was getting ready for any emergency.

LONDON PARENTS HOLD REUNIONS WITH CHILDREN

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 10.—This has been a day of happy reunion for families parted by last week's evacuation of London. Crowded excursion trains carried parents to the coast and country to see their children.

It might have been a normal holiday exodus but for the absence of children, who on any fine Sunday would have crowded trains bound for the coast. Other parents pooled their cash to hire cars. Motorists out for their last Sunday's outing before the gasoline rationing begins offered to take others with them.

Many took food to be shared with their children at picnics, but one item was common to all—a gas mask.

Germany to Use Zeppelins Only to Transport Officers

[Acme Photo.]

GEN. MAXIME WEYGAND.

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 10 (AP).—Gen. Maxime Weygand, commander of French-British forces in the near east, conferred with Turkish army leaders today on joint military plans to be used if war should spread to the eastern Mediterranean. He flew from Beirut, Syria, last night and probably will return there late today.

The Turkish press stressed that the attitude of this country, an ally of Britain and France, depends on whether Italy or soviet Russia join Germany in the European war. The full national assembly will meet here tomorrow, and informed quarters say it will define Turkey's attitude as one of "watchful waiting."

ARMS EMBARGO REPEAL SESSION EXPECTED OCT. 2

Canada Now Added to Belligerent List.

administration's only hope of assisting the Anglo-French alliance by making available the war supplies of the United States is to obtain repeal of the arms embargo. The announcement that the call for a special session would be issued during the forthcoming week was made at Hyde Park, N. Y., where Mr. Roosevelt is spending the week-end.

The President, it was learned, has delayed the call thus far in an effort to obtain assurances that there will be no "filibuster" in the senate. The President and other administration officials are convinced that popular opinion is so strongly anti-Hitler that congress will repeal the arms embargo in order to assist Great Britain and France. Hence it was the prospect of an acrimonious debate in the senate, rather than the fear of defeat, that occasioned the President's delay in summoning congress.

Opposes Lengthy Debate.

The administration does not want a prolonged senate debate which, with a full and frank discussion of the motives and methods not only of Nazi Germany but of British and French imperialism, would demonstrate to the world that there is a division of opinion with respect to the President's foreign policy.

The President's purpose in communicating with various congressional leaders of both parties, it was learned, has been to seek their coöperation in bringing the arms embargo provision of the neutrality act to a vote with as little debate as possible. The leaders have pledged their coöperation to obtain "prompt" consideration of the question, but have not encouraged the belief that senate debate can be restricted by unanimous consent or otherwise. Mr. Roosevelt was informed that a cloture [gag] rule, which requires a two-thirds vote in the senate, is out of the question.

The neutrality and non-intervention advocates have not abandoned hope of retaining the arms embargo, but they concede that the strong sympathies of the American people will be a powerful factor on Mr. Roosevelt's side. Their main hope for retention of the arms embargo lies in the conviction that the American people are more anti-war than pro-British and pro-French. They believe that many members of congress who oppose the neutrality act in theory will hesitate to vote for its revision because they lack confidence in Mr. Roosevelt, with his ardent sympathies and impulsive temperament, to keep the country out of war.

CANADA ENTERS EMPIRE'S WAR AGAINST NAZIS

Fourth Dominion to Join in Conflict Abroad.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 10.—Canada today formally declared war on Germany.

The decision to go to war was approved by parliament last night. The proclamation, effective as from today, was published this morning in a special edition of the Canada Gazette. The proclamation was issued in the name of Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe, over the signature of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and under the seal of Governor General Lord Tweedsmuir in the name of King George VI. of Great Britain.

Dispatches from London tonight said that King George had issued a proclamation "on the advice of his majesty's privy council in Canada" that Canada was at war with Germany. It was learned that after the Canadian government had approved its proclamation of war it cabled to King George and asked and received his "permission" to announce war. This was said to set a Canadian constitutional precedent.

The First Declaration.

It was the first time that Canada has declared war. In 1914 the government merely published the British declaration in the Canada Gazette. Since then the statute of Westminster has given Canada the status of independence within the empire.

[Four of the five dominions now have joined the British cause. Those having declared war, besides Canada, are South Africa, New Zealand, and Australia. Only Irelana has refused to take the step. Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of Ireland has declared strictest neutrality.]

The text of the proclamation follows:

George the Sixth by the grace of God of Great Britain, Ireland, and the British dominions beyond the seas king, defender of the faith, emperor of India.

To all to whom these presents shall come or whom the same may in anywise concern.

Greeting.

A PROCLAMATION.

Ernest Lapointe,

Attorney general, Canada.

Whereas by and with the advice of our privy council for Canada we have signified our approval of the issue of a proclamation in the Canada Gazette declaring that a state of war with the German reich exists and has existed in our Dominion of Canada as and from the 10th day of September, 1939;

Now therefore we do hereby declare and proclaim that a state of war with the German reich exists and has existed in our Dominion of Canada as and from the 10th day of September, 1939.

Of all which our loving subjects and all others whom these presents may concern are hereby required to take notice and to govern themselves accordingly.

In testimony whereof we have caused these our letters to be made patent and the great seal of Canada to be hereunto affixed. Witness: Our right trusty and well beloved John Baron Tweedsmuir of Elsfield, a member of our most honorable privy council, knight grand cross of our most distinguished order of Saint Michael and Saint George, knight grand cross of our royal Victorian order, member of our order of the companions of honor, governor general and commander-in-chief of our Dominion of Canada.

At our government house, in our city of Ottawa, this 10th day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, and in the third year of our reign.

By command.

W. L. MACKENZIE KING,

Prime minister of Canada.

House to Consider Taxes.

The special session of parliament tomorrow will take up the task of enacting war legislation. The house of commons will consider the questions of taxation and appropriation of funds. It is possible that a war budget also will be discussed.

Debate in parliament last night on the decision of entering the war was one-sided in favor of participation. The senate acted first, approving the step unanimously. The house of commons then expressed itself similarly with an unrecorded vote.

The scattered dissenters in commons included the French-Canadian members from Quebec and a handful of isolationists. Both factions were routed. Two Quebec French-Canadian Liberals, Liguori Lacombe and Wilfred Lacroix, proposed an amendment that Canada should not participate in the war, but their motion fell when none stood with them to force a vote.

Voice Against Conscription.

Justice Minister Lapointe, recognized leader of French-Canada, declared himself for war—but against conscription, which he said would empty the cabinet of its French speaking ministers. The government has committed itself against conscription.

During his speech Lapointe said: "God bless Canada, God save Canada, God save Canada's honor, Canada's soul, Canada's dignity, Canada's conscience."

CANADA'S 11 MILLION PUTS EMPIRE TOTAL AT WAR 505,556,000

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Canada's declaration of war against Germany today gave France, Britain, and Poland a total population of 505,556,000, compared with its enemies' 90,600,000.

Here's how they lined up in the week old European war:

Nation.	Population.
Germany	86,600,000
Slovakia	4,000,000
Versus
Poland	32,348,000
France	43,000,000
Great Britain, including:
United Kingdom	48,000,000
Australia	8,000,000
New Zealand	1,600,000
Union of South Africa	10,000,000
Canada	11,208,000
India	351,399,000

[Egypt, treaty bound to Great Britain, has severed diplomatic relations with Germany.]

CANADA KEEPS BORDER OPEN TO ALL BUT NAZIS

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 10 [Canadian Press].—The proclamation declaring Canada in a state of war with Germany will make no difference to persons coming into Canada unless they are German citizens, F. C. Blair, director of immigration, said tonight. He added:

"Citizens of the United States may enter Canada as freely as ever. United States visitors need not produce birth certificates or passports. European citizens must present passports, however."

3 MORE BRITISH SHIPS SUNK IN SEA WARFARE

Empire's Losses Soar to 12; 2 Vessels Escape.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP). — Three more British vessels were officially reported sunk today, bringing to twelve the total number of British ships which have gone to the bottom in the first eight days of the European war.

The twelfth ship was the 8,640 ton steamship Magdapur, the ministry of information announced late tonight, adding it sank with an undetermined number of casualties. The method of the sinking and the location of the accident were not announced.

Others officially added to the list of lost ships today were the 2,769 ton Goodwood, sunk today, and the Rio Claro, 4,086 tons, sunk on Wednesday. The crew of the Rio Claro was rescued and landed in the Azores by a Dutch vessel.

Liner Eludes Attacker

The Goodwood, the British Press association said, was attacked and sunk in the North sea, and a fishing vessel rescued the crew, although many of them were injured. Further details were lacking.

The ministry of information also reported a submarine attack on the 20,107-ton Union Castle liner Warwick Castle on its way back to England from South Africa, adding jubilantly, however, that "it gallantly eluded its attackers."

The 1,180-ton Chloris also ran away from an attacking submarine, the announcement said.

Another ministry of information communique reported the German merchantmen Baldur, 5,805 tons, and Vegesak, 4,061 tons, had gone ashore on the Norwegian coast. There was no explanation.

The additional losses reported today brought the total in the war thus far to twenty, thirteen for Britain and France, one French vessel having been sunk; five for Germany, and two for neutral nations, The Netherlands and Greece.

Germans Outfit Privateers.

(Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.)

PANAMA, Sept. 10.—Few countries on the west coast of South and Central America, with the exception of Chile and Peru, have been able to prevent the outfitting of German privateers and sea raiders in their ports. However, there have been no reports of sinkings.

The German freighter Eisenach cut gun holes with acetelyne torches while in the port of Corinto, Nicaragua, and sailed on Aug. 31. She is now in Puntarenas, Costa Rica.

The master of the Eisenach refused to obey the orders of Nicaraguan authorities to leave the pier and was fined $50 an hour until the ship departed. A Japanese ship alongside the Eisenach also was fined. The Eisenach, of 4,323 gross tons, is 360 feet long and has a fifty-one foot beam. She carries a crew of forty-five.

Flies Swedish Flag.

The German cargo passenger ship Tacoma, after discharging all her passengers and repainting her stack and hull, sailed from Libertad, Salvador, on Aug. 29, flying the Swedish flag. The Tacoma, 8,267 gross tons, carries a crew of seventy-three.

The German ship Leipzig is now in Guayaquil and, it is reported, may take 500 German reservists through the Strait of Magellan to Germany. A rumor here is that the German reservists are planning to leave here by a schooner for Perlas islands and contact the German ship for the homeward voyage.

300 AMERICAN COLLEGES WILL TRAIN AVIATORS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The Civil Aeronautics Authority today approved applications of 166 colleges and universities in forty-one states to participate in the civilian pilot training program.

The Illinois and Indiana colleges approved are Bradley Polytechnic institute, Knox college, Armour Institute of Technology, De Paul university, and Loyola university. Purdue university, Butler university, Indiana Technical college [Fort Wayne], and Gary Junior college.

Robert H. Hinckley, CAA chairman, said another list of institutions would be announced about Sept. 13 and predicted that by Sept. 18 at least 300 will have been approved.

The program, authorized by the last congress, will provide for the training of about 11,000 new civilian pilots during the coming school year.

The CAA's announcement coincided with the opening of a two week air progress observance by the National Aeronautic association. The NAA said celebrations were planned in about 1,000 cities.

BELGIUM CALLS MORE RESERVES INTO TRAINING

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept. 10 (AP).—Belgium tonight called to the colors an undisclosed number of additional reserves, effective tomorrow, for an instruction period. It also decreed temporary suspension of import taxes on cereals, prohibited exports on a speculative basis, and ruled against abnormal prices.

The permanent committee of the seven small neutral nations of the Oslo group will meet here tomorrow. It represents The Netherlands, Luxemburg, Denmark, Finland, Sweden, Norway, and Belgium. The committee will discuss the rights of neutral nations, and it was said contacts with other neutrals, including the United States, might be made later.

Sea Captain Insists Poles Will Throw Back Invaders

Dover, N. J., Sept. 10 (AP).—Capt. Eustazy Borkowski of the liner Batory of the Gdynia-American [Polish] line urged Polish-Americans tonight to "have no fears about the retreat of the Polish army. It is being conducted in orderly fashion and is part of Poland's strategy." Capt. Borkowski, appearing before 5,000 members of the Association of Sons of Poland at their camp in Randolph township to receive a gold medal of merit, added that "any day now you can expect a counter-atttack in Warsaw which will drive the German army back where it came from."

On Way Home

Dr. John M. Radzinski of Chicago, one of thirty-two Americans who were trapped in Poland by the outbreak of war, is now on his way home, it was learned yesterday. Dr. Radzinski, who lives at 3718 Berteau avenue and is a member of the neurological staff of St. Mary's hospital, went to Warsaw in August to attend an international neurological congress. Mrs. Radzinski was reported to be with him. They and the other Americans were said to be on their way from Riga, Latvia, to Stockholm, Sweden, aboard a Swedish steamer. The train on which they fled to the Latvian border was reported to have been bombed by German planes.

EXPERTS AGREE DOUGHBOY MIGHT HAVE BEEN RIGHT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—(AP)—A group of weather experts agreed today that there may be a germ of truth in the theory, popular with American doughboys who fought in the mud of France during the world war, that heavy artillery firing brings on a rain. Meteorologists attending the present meeting of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics said the thunder of the guns had no effect, but particles of smoke drifting up from a bombardment might cause particles of water in the clouds to condense into larger drops which would fall as rain.

London's Air Raid Suit Makes You Chic in a Flash

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—Latest style note for London lassies—"the air raid emergency suit." The makers guarantee it can be "stepped into in one minute." It's a one-piece overall affair of strawberry Angora wool with a zipper and patch pockets.

YANKEES ABOARD CLIPPER TELL OF FLIGHT FROM WAR

Charter Dilapidated Bus to Get Out of France.

New York, Sept 10 [Special].—Tales of adventures in getting out of Europe were told today by passengers aboard the Dixie Clipper, which arrived at Port Washington from Lisbon, Portugal, by way of the Azores and Bermuda. Twenty-six of the fifty-one aboard the clipper had fled from war excited Europe.

Justine D. Bowersock, a Kansas City newspaper man, recounted the experiences of a party of thirteen Americans who found themselves stranded in Marseilles, France. The party included Johnston A. Bowman, secretary of the Bowman Dairy company, and Alfred P. Dorjahn, both of Evanston, Ill.; four women, two children, and four other men.

All desired to get back to the United States as soon as possible, and all wanted to reach Lisbon to board the clipper. Train service was not available so the party chartered a dilapidated bus, painted American flags on the sides, and set out for Biarritz. They arrived two days later and headed for Hendaye but turned back, fearing they would become stranded in Spain.

An appeal was made to the American consul in San Sebastian and space for the party finally was obtained on the Sud Express for Lisbon.

School Teachers Aboard.

A party of three American school teachers who returned aboard the clipper also had an exciting experience. They left Naples aboard an Italian freighter a week before war was declared. Four days out the captain said he had to go to a neutral port. He put them off on the Canary Islands. There they boarded a Norwegian steamer for London and were put ashore at Casa Blanca, French Morocco. They they went through several nights of blackouts and then made their way to Lisbon.

The United States lines' steamer American Trader reached Boston today with 124 passengers from Europe. The Trader is due in New York tomorrow, along with the Swedish-American Kungsholm, carrying 1,000 Americans; the Holland-American Noordam, the British Vandyck from Liverpool, and the Arandora from Southampton and Cherbourg.

United States Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, Congressman Kent E. Keller of Illinois, and Wellmar Bostrom, Swedish minister to the United States, are aboard the Kungsholm.

Subs Cut Ship Schedules.

Reports from the British admiralty that German submarines are roving widely over the Atlantic have resulted in further curtailment of shipping service. The Scantic-American liner Scanmail, bound for Copenhagen, is the only vessel scheduled to sail tomorrow. British warships will convoy the Schnmail through the mine fields in the North sea.

Three great French liners — the Normandie, Ile de France, and Champlain—the British Queen Mary, and the Italian Roma are tied up here with no indication when they will leave for Europe. British and French line officials have put a censorship over movements of their ships. Since the Italian Rex left Naples yesterday for America with 2,000 passengers, it is possible the Roma will be returned to service soon.

FRANCE TO STAKE ALL WEALTH ON WAR—REYNAUD

Finance Minister Calls Nazis Vulnerable.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 10.—All the resources of France are subject to mobilization for the duration of the war, this country was warned tonight by Finance Minister Paul Reynaud in a radio broadcast.

Reynaud explained the exchange control and other stringent financial and economic decrees published in the official Journal this morning. He predicted that on the economic and financial fronts France will prove stronger than Germany and in a better position than it was at the beginning of the world war in 1914.

Nazi Germany Vulnerable.

"One should be careful not to underestimate the strength of the adversary," declared the finance minister, "but I do not think I am underestimating the enemy in telling you this:

"Germany is already to a great extent worn out by the gigantic effort it has made to prepare for the war. Economically and financially, the German organism is already very vulnerable. On this front Germany has no more fresh troops."

Reynaud said France is better prepared for its war ordeal than is generally believed. He stated that apart from increases in production in the war industries, the French gold stock has increased by 30 per cent in the last year and that the Bank of France possesses twice as many tons of gold as it did in August, 1914.

Superiority "Greater Today."

"On Nov. 11, 1918, Germany succumbed to the superiority of the allied war potential," Reynaud declared. "That superiority remains intact. It may even prove greater today. The weight of the two most powerful empires in the world, England's and ours, have been cast into the balance. We will conquer because we are the stronger.

"With those tons of gold we will be able to buy abroad the raw materials which we need to make war; we will buy arms, we will buy airplanes. The gold means fewer days of war and more French lives spared."

In contrast to the situation at the beginning of the 1914 war, the banks and postal savings banks have placed no restrictions on payments. Reynaud said the government has not been forced to borrow to the legal limit from the Bank of France, and that in the first week of the war the subscriptions to armament bonds exceeded withdrawals to the extent of 1,600,000,000 francs [$35,520,000].

A Call for All Riches.

The finance minister then warned that "it is necessary to mobilize all our accumulated riches. Never forget that if this war is to become a war of usury, the nation which will hold out for the last quarter of an hour is the nation which will produce the most and consume the least."

Reynaud listed the principal restrictions of the new series of decree laws. Chief among these is exchange control, which the French are enforcing in imitation of Great Britain. The new economic régime "gives the Bank of France the monopoly of trade in foreign moneys." Speculation in securities and moneys will be impossible and the financial scandals of the last war cannot be repeated, Reynaud promised.

He revealed that the new decree laws were drawn up three months ago.

The monarch, who is 81 years old, told members how he had appealed to King Leopold of Belgium "for negotiations before the catastrophe came," and how he was "especially anxious to support and widen the entente between the Nordic peoples and our neighbors."

Terming the outbreak of the war a "defeat for humanity," he introduced an "extra" budget calling for a $50,000,000 emergency fund.

CUTTERS TAKE SIX ATHENIA INJURED OFF RESCUE SHIP

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The coast guard cutters Bibb and Campbell today advised that they had reached the steamer City of Flint, 400 miles off Newfoundland, and had removed six injured survivors of the torpedoed British ship Athenia.

Commander Henry Coyle of the Bibb wirelessed headquarters here that medical supplies, food and blankets had been transferred to the City of Flint and that this "seems to adjust the matter and relieve the situation."

Commander Coyle said the two cutters would remain with the ship and convoy her to Halifax, N. S. Officials here said the ships should reach Halifax Wednesday.

The cutters have instructions to bring the Americans to the United States from Halifax.

Former Queen Geraldine and their baby were not with him. Frank Samuels of Jersey City, national head of the organization of American citizens who saw service in the German army in the 1914-1918 struggle, addressed Post 6 last night and urged the organization to avoid public demonstrations as well as discussions about the present war in Europe.

Russians Storm Stores; Stock Up on Groceries

MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—Exceptionally long lines of customers formed outside of groceries here today. Purchases of nonperishable commodities—sugar, flour, cereals, rice, groats, macaroni, noodles, matches, kerosene, and soap—were made in such quantities that supplies were being restricted in some smaller stores temporarily. There is no reason to suppose Russia is short any of these articles, but unexpected demand has taken Moscow stores by surprise.

THE ABC'S OF SILVER (9)

By CALEB

NO discussion of silver should omit special consideration of American Colonial and Contemporary design. First, because each so essentially depicts our own country and time; second, because each is artistically as appealing and satisfying as any "period" representative of Europe or the Orient.

American Colonial, in particular, has a tradition, yet is in no sense ancient — nor even, from certain points of view, "historic" in the usual meaning of time long-lapsed. It borrowed themes, naturally, from the mother country's Jacobean, Queen Anne, William and Mary, Georgian and the French Empire; but New England craftsmen like Thomas Howard, John Mansfield, John Hull, and Paul Revere, rightly and robustly applied to their creations numerous motifs as American in feeling as their own hearths and hillsides.

Such varied and original forms as fans, shells, the American eagle, husks, festoons, pineapples, above all the specially characteristic "bonnet top" used over Colonial secretaries, highboys, bookcases, clocks and doorways . . . inspired the distinctive designs of Revolutionary times, and are still reflected in modern patterns.

As for Contemporary silver design, that, in turn, has vigorously "followed through" on the initiative of these interesting forebears, by retaining much of the Colonial's admirable simplicity and supplementing that with what the Sterling Silversmiths Guild defines as "fine structural form, and the elimination of all but functional corners, curves and details."

Alike in one's examination of Colonial and Contemporary silver, the pleasing, paramount impression is that of loveliness based on elemental contour, dignity of line, and a maturity that can dispense with the cumbrous, involved, ornate imagery of Yesterday so often evidential of fancy rather than of full-stature art. . . .

And so, having of necessity cursorily —but perchance informatively—covered the intriguing topic of silver . . . as one of humanity's most cherished embodiments of timeless charm, constant inspiration and lifetime use . . . there needs to be added only a concluding comment on how this "Queen of Metals" should be cared for and used. Constructive discussion of that utilitarian point will appear shortly.

NAZIS ATTACK FRENCH LINE ON MOSELLE RIVER

Paris' Troops Advance on Saar Halted.

coal and sallied from the mine mouths under cover of darkness.

French Link Advance Units.

A French communique issued before noon today indicated that the French were holding fast.

While French advance guards fought off Nazi raiders last night, utilizing German blockhouses which had been taken in the first week of the war, larger French units moved up from the Maginot line to consolidate the advance positions.

French engineer detachments, digging in under fire, strengthened the one time German fortifications for French use by linking them to connecting trenches to the rear. Fresh troops from the Maginot fortresses moved up and joined isolated advance party positions, converting French forward resistance into something resembling a continuous line for the first time since the French advance started.

The best information from unofficial sources indicated the western front battle lines swing in a curve from the junction of the Saar and Moselle rivers, at the northern end of the front, along the Saar through the towns of Saarburg, Saarlouis and Saarbrücken. At Saarbrücken the line was believed to leave the river and swing back to rejoin the Siegfried line several miles southeast of Zweibrücken.

French Stopped Before Towns.

This curve roughly represented German positions from which the Nazis were counterattacking. The French positions were reported to lie on the outside curve which bulges toward the French frontier. It apparently is only in front of the larger towns, such as Saarburg, Saarbrücken, and Saarlouis, that the French had not reached the line of the river, which flows through these points. Strong German positions kept the French at distances of a mile or two.

The no man's land over which the French and Germans are fighting between the Siegfried and Maginot lines averages approximately fifteen miles on the northern flank of the western front. It narrows from twenty-five miles, where it is bordered on the north by the Moselle river, to virtually nothing at the pivot of the front on the Rhine at Lauterbourg, where the two lines of fortifications face each other scarcely more than a hand grenade's throw apart.

Polish recruiting offices were opened in Paris today under an agreement with the French government to form an army for service in France which will fight under its own officers and own flag. Thousands of Polish residents of France crowded into the three recruiting bureaus set up here.

New German Night Raids.

BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 11 [Monday.] (AP).—Shock troops of Germany's Siegfried line, operating under a curtain of protective fire from their own forts, made night raids for the second time on newly captured French positions in the German Saarland last night and early today. Reports indicated the attacks met with varying successes.

Nazis Class Jews with Visas to Britain as English

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—Jews who obtained visas for England and other parts of the British empire but were unable to leave the country before war was declared now must report daily to the police the same as the English. British civilians of military age in Germany were arrested and it was announced they would be "treated exactly the way the English treat the Germans they have in camp."

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

Should ministers preach on the war?

Where Answered.

Michigan avenue.

The Answers.

Miss Phyllis Weeks, Allerton hotel, artist — Preachers should definitly keep war out of the pulpit. It's politics. The less it is talked about the better. Why get the United States all excited? Undoubtedly discussions of war blame would inflame the people. Besides ministers have enough to talk about without discussing war.

Arthur Goldberg, 3520 Lake Shore drive, lawyer—Yes, ministers should feel free to discuss war if they want to. It is one of the most important questions today. The more people realize its horror, the less danger we will have of being thrust into it. There is no question that the clergy could wield a tremendous influence on public opinion.

Miss Eve Price, 3710 Wilton avenue, cashier—I think it might be well to get a clergyman's viewpoint on this war. Our only source of news and propaganda is the newspapers. If the question is discussed carefully by intelligent clergymen their opinions and persuasions might help to keep us out of war. Anything that will do that has my approval.

Irwin Cohen, 444 St. James place, lawyer—I see no objections to a minister preaching about war in his pulpit. But I do think he has more important things to talk about, more problems here at home that require attention. Of course he has the right to discuss any question that concerns mankind, but I believe a preacher would have little new factual information to give.

Miss Mildred Walsh, 643 Melrose avenue, cashier—Yes, they might be doing a service to the public if they would strive to persuade people that war is terrible. They certainly should refrain from saying anything that would drive us into the war. I feel so definitly against fighting. I have brothers, you see. Undoubtedly, preachers could sway their congregations for the good.

SHOT DURING QUARREL.

Lee Suggs, 51 years old, colored, of 1252 Jefferson street, was shot and wounded seriously by another colored man in his home during a quarrel yesterday.

BROOKS ASSERTS AMERICA MUST REMAIN NEUTRAL

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 10 [Special].—Urging absolute American neutrality in the European war, Wayland Brooks, prominently mentioned as a Republican candidate for governor in 1940, addressed a crowd of 1,000 at a colored Republican picnic for Madison and St. Clair counties today.

"The one great necessity in America is to remain completely and absolutely neutral," Brooks said. "Our nation is made up of all the nations of the earth and our participation could do no good over there, but would create prejudice and bitterness here that would add to our already burdensome home problems."

Brooks spoke from experience, having been awarded the distinguished service cross, the American navy medal and croix de guerre in the world war, in which he was wounded seven times.

Brooks did not declare himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, but Roscoe Conklin Simmons, Chicago Negro attorney, in his address called Brooks the type of leader needed by the state and nation.

PRESIDENT LISTENS TO SERMON FLAYING AGGRESSORS IN WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 10.—President Roosevelt today attended services in the village church here and listened attentively to the reading of biblical passages which emphasized the retribution visited upon those who make war.

The Rev. Frank R. Wilson, Episcopalian pastor, read excerpts from the Old Testament which obviously could be interpreted as having a bearing on the conflict in Europe. In his sermon he pleaded for charity in the relations between nations.

The President spent a quiet day after his return from church with his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt.

In a conversation with Secretary of State Cordell Hull he authorized the issuance of the proclamation of neutrality with regard to Canada. He boarded a train late tonight, and will be back at his desk tomorrow.

JAPAN WARNED AGAINST TRYING TO OUST POWERS

UJI-YAMADA, Japan, Sept. 10 (AP).—Premier Gen. Nobuyuki Abe warned Japanese today that the belief that Japan can force western powers to retreat from the far east because of the European war is a "very dangerous idea."

He also disclosed the government is considering methods of adjusting relations between Japan and soviet Russia. He said it is considering "the view which prevails in some quarters for conclusion of a nonaggression pact" with Moscow.

Gen. Abe also strongly reiterated Japan's intention to remain neutral in the European conflict and expressed doubt that the United States would replace Great Britain as the principal nation supporting the régime of Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

This sensational new General Motors-Delco Stoker is a marvel of economy and convenience. Its Controlled Underfiring permits practically complete combustion of every grain of the inexpensive coal used. Smoke and gas are burned and sent upstairs as heat instead of curtain and drapery-soiling soot.

It was only natural that General Motors should design this remarkable automatic stoker. No one has had more experience than General Motors in the design and manufacture of the mechanical elements that go to make up a Stoker . . . or the inventive skill and intensive laboratory research necessary to combine them into an efficient unit.

Some of the 48 Important Features

Abrasive, rust and acid resistant Rhino-hide lining adds years of life to the hopper.

Finger-tip control for easy transmission regulation by any member of the family.

Impulse fuel feed supplies coal at proper intervals for best combustion.

Automatic air control gives smooth, graduated starting. Prevents fuel loss from blasting.

EVERY TYPE OF AUTOMATIC HEAT IN THE DELCO LINE . . .

THE NEW DELCO OIL BURNER Models for homes of every size. Fully automatic. Efficiency from all moving parts enclosed in an easily removable Rotopower Unit; economy from Thin-Mix Fuel Control.

THE NEW DELCO BOILER Sensational new features in the new Delco Oil Boiler, mean new economy, new cleanliness, new ease of operation. The revolutionary Quik-Action Heat Transmitter decreases heat-lag, gives quicker heat, saves oil.

THE NEW DELCO WATER HEATER For your home or business. Supplies 80 gals. of steaming hot water an hour. Uses same inexpensive fuel oil as house-heating oil burners. Entirely automatic. Equipped with revolutionary Quik-Action Heat Transmitter.

 but THAT'S ONLY HALF THE STORY!*

Now DELCO OFFERS A TRULY SCIENTIFIC METHOD OF INSTALLATION WITH THE EXCLUSIVE

DELCO INSTALOMETER

To all the great new features of Delco Automatic Heat, General Motors adds—a Laboratory-Type Installation right in your home! Until now, most installations were made by "sight", and check-up tests on installations—even by well-trained heating engineers—reveal that in nearly 9 cases out of 10 improvement in efficiency can be made with the use of the Delco Instalometer.

THE DELCO INSTALOMETER is a sensitive electrical instrument operating on universally accepted principles of combustion. It measures the efficiency of the entire heating plant. Every installation made with it bears this Delco Gold Seal.

ITALIANS PRAISE NAZI EFFICIENCY IN POLISH DRIVE

Talk of Joining Germany to Crush France.

ROME, Sept. 10 (AP).—Italy today exhibited increased partiality toward her axis partner, Germany.

Although Premier Mussolini kept secret his plans and continued a policy of neutrality in the European conflict, the controled Fascist press praised what it described as the efficiency of Germany's invasion of Poland with admiration and enthusiasm.

The newspapers tended to ridicule France and Great Britain for the absence of any large scale offensive on the western front and charged that Britain had violated the neutrality of Belgium, The Netherlands and Denmark.

Warns of Neutrality Violations.

The authoritative Fascist editor, Virginio Gayda, wrote in La Voce d' Italia that Britain appeared to be fighting these neutral states rather than Germany and warned them to be vigilant.

The attitude of the press was reflected to a considerable extent among the populace.

Since Italians had been told that their military alliance with Germany required them to go to her aid immediately, if the reich became involved in war, many of them had expected to be plunged into the conflict at once.

On learning this was not to be the case, their first feeling was one of relief, and an evidence of diminishing ardor in some quarters for the Rome-Berlin axis.

Talk of Crushing France.

In recent days, however, the exhibition of German prowess in Poland evoked new enthusiasm and there was more talk, especially among young Fascists, of Italy eventually joining sides with Germany to crush France.

At the same time there was evidence that Italy does not expect to go to war in the near future in the opening of the Levantine fair at Bari, as scheduled, in which a number of foreign nations are participating.

Il Popolo di Roma, speaking of the Fascist injunction that all Italians must continue work calmly, said: "Italy, which has demonstrated her warlike efficiency by conquering an empire in six months, routing the enemy in Spain and liberating Albania, is ready for any emergency which may present itself in the development of events."

Supplies Dwindle.

Although Italy is at peace, some scarcities have already appeared. The ban on private automobiles has resulted in a run on bicycles and dealers have exhausted their supplies. The same is true of electric heaters which have been bought up by Italians fearing a coal shortage.

Coffee is unobtainable and there is little sugar available, although the government says adequate sugar is assured. Two meatless days weekly are already in effect.

A Rome dispatch from the Warsaw front to La Voce d' Italia, dated this morning, pictured the German army dominating Warsaw by complete encirclement and preparing to enter the Polish capital during the day.

BABY CRITICALLY SCALDED.

William O'Hallaren, 13 months old, was in a critical condition in the Norwegian American hospital yesterday from scalds suffered Saturday when he upset a pan of boiling water in his home at 3706 Grand avenue.

RUMANIA JOINS TURKS IN ENLARGING ARMY; ALARMED BY RUSSIA

BUCHAREST, Sept. 10 (AP).—The Rumanian government, with more than a million men already under arms, has called several additional classes to the colors, it was learned in official quarters tonight.

The action was taken simultaneously with the calling up of many reservists in Turkey, Rumania's ally.

Official quarters have expressed fears regarding the intentions of Russia on Rumania's eastern frontier. News of troop movements in Russia has created a stir in Bucharest.

POLES DISPENSE WITH GAYETY AT DETROIT SESSION

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10 [Special].—Because of the war all banquets, dances, and other festivities which were to have been a part of the seven day meeting have been canceled for the quadrennial convention of the Polish National alliance, which opened here today.

There are 534 delegates to the convention, representing 300,000 members throughout the country. More than 4,000 persons are here for the sessions.

The alliance, one of the largest Polish fraternal organizations in the world, was founded in 1880 and lists insurance assets at $30,000,000. National headquarters are in Chicago.

GERMAN ARMY'S 4 WAVE ATTACK WITHERS POLES

Tanks, Flame Throwers Used in Assaults.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN EAST POLAND, Sept. 10.—Correspondents have not yet been allowed to go to the Polish front, but from foreign military observers I have heard eyewitness details of the action which brought the Germans to the gates of Warsaw.

To make a break through the Polish defenses, attacks in four waves are launched. First there is terrific, concentrated preparation by aviation to disperse troops and put field batteries out of action. The second wave is a mass of tanks. The third wave consists of flame throwers. By that time the field is presumed to be clear and then on comes the fourth wave, motorized infantry to consolidate the ground.

Weather Against Poles.

It is certain that the Poles in many places have been overwhelmed by superior numbers and equipment.

One of the many factors of war which are against the Poles is the weather. Ever since the war began, nine days ago, there have been bright, sunny, and cloudless days and moonlit nights. These all combine to help the Germans use aviation and ground machinery to maximum advantage.

What the Polish army needs most at the present moment—even more than new airplanes and artillery—is the onset of September rains which would turn the fields into bogs in which the German machinery would become stuck and the Polish cavalry would be able to operate advantageously.

Mass Army Along Vistula.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Sept. 10.—Although official Polish general staff communiques emphasize that retreats on all fronts are proceeding according to plan and are being brilliantly carried out, Baltic military attachés in Poland are giving a different picture in reports to their governments.

According to these reports Polish armies now are concentrated on a line below Serock and Nowo Georgiewsk and the south bank of the Vistula river to Warsaw, which is protected by large swamps.

The German forces advancing from Kutno contacted the East Prussian division which captured Plock, about sixty miles northwest of Warsaw, and cut off the last avenue of escape for the Polish army corps in Poznan.

MAN 81, KILLED BY CAR.

Robinson, Ill., Sept. 10 (AP).—David D. Howe of Annapolis Village, 81 years old, was injured fatally when struck by an automobile as he was crossing the street there last night. The driver of the car, Clyde Bilyew, was exonerated by a coroner's jury.

"I didn't think I'd see him again, but after what happened, I'll bet that one of those Tribune lost and found want ads can find anything that's lost"!

Whenever you lose anything of value be sure to telephone a Lost and Found want ad to the Chicago Tribune. Thousands of dollars' worth of property is restored each year to owners who advertise in the Lost and Found column of the Tribune.

Regardless of what you may have lost, or where in Chicago or suburbs you may have lost it, there is a good chance that a Tribune reader will find it.

Every day of the week the Tribune is read by a majority of all the families in metropolitan Chicago. This is practically as many as read any two other Chicago newspapers combined.

Further, the Tribune is Chicago's big want ad marketplace, carrying far more want advertising and, as a result, attracting far more want ad readers than any other Chicago newspaper.

As an extra service to Tribune Lost and Found advertisers, all such ads are kept for three months after publication in a special register open to the public at the Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 S. Dearborn St. and in Tribune Tower, 435 N. Michigan Ave.

Call SUPERIOR 0100—WANT AD-VISER and ask for Miss Miller if you wish to recover lost valuables. Miss Miller will help you word your want ad. If your name is in the phone book, you may charge your Tribune want ad.

HORSE CAVALRY STILL IS VITAL FORCE IN ARMY

Mechanized Units' Value Lies in Great Mobility.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

In view of the German army's speedy march into Poland, the mechanized combat units are of particular interest. Military observers and officers who took part in the August army maneuver at Plattsburg, N. Y., had an opportunity to see the mechanized cavalry of the United States army in action and draw a comparison with the horse cavalry which has been a vital fighting force throughout history.

Mechanized cavalry, according to army officers who pioneered the first unit organized, never was intended to replace horse cavalry. The mechanized force is supplemental and necessary because of the development of fast motor transportation. But the horse still can go where the motor cannot reach.

First Test Undertaken.

The first test of a mechanized fighting unit was started Dec. 6, 1932, when the First cavalry regiment was ordered to turn in its horses at Fort Bliss, Tex., and move to Fort Knox, Ky.

Development of the unit was slow. Army officers could not agree on the types of vehicles to be used. Some favored wheeled vehicles which required a network of roads for efficient maneuverability while others favored caterpillar traction.

When a compromise was reached several years later, both types of vehicles were adopted. Since 1935 the development has been rapid.

Army experts are agreed that a maximum of mobility is required for defense of the United States because of the nation's immense road system. The maneuvers at Plattsburg gave an impressive demonstration of the extensive mobility of the 7th mechanized cavalry brigade.

70 Mile March in Night.

In one problem of the maneuver the 7th brigade made a night march of 70 miles without losing one of its 600 vehicles. The 70 mile march enabled the mechanized unit to travel in a wide circle completely around the enemy and make its surprise attack from the rear.

However, at another point in the exercises a frontal attack by the mechanized unit was stopped quickly and easily by the horse cavalry because the horse units had reached a dominant position by marching through woods and across streams where motor vehicles could not go.

The nature of the ground over which armed forces operate naturally is an important and deciding factor in the use of either type of cavalry.

This fact was counted upon by Poland in organizing its army against invasion by the mechanized forces of Germany. Poland, virtually without roads, is an ideal terrain for horse cavalry operations, but almost insurmountable for the mechanized units once they get off the highways.

Horse cavalry was useless in the trench warfare of the world war. But the army general staff believes, because of the vast expanse of the United States, open warfare would be a certainty in the event of an invasion. Therefore both horse and mechanized cavalry would become important arms of the defending forces.

Tag Day Today

Mrs. Mary Forrest holds tags which will be sold today throughout Chicago.

"Will you have a heart?"

This question will be heard thousands of times on city streets today as workers from fifty private and independent welfare agencies take their posts to pin the familiar red tags on lapels in return for public contributions to their charities.

The drive, which is the twenty-third annual campaign by volunteer women workers, will be sponsored by the Chicago Federated Charities, and Associated Charities. Approximately $50,000 is sought, all of which will be turned over to free clinics, hospitals, children's homes, sanatoriums for the tubercular, aged and indigent, instructions for convalescent men, women, and children, day nurseries, and social centers.

FEWER SKEETERS BITE THE HANDS THAT COUNT 'EM

Mosquitoes were fewer in the Chicago area this year than in any recent years except 1930 and 1934. J. Lyell Clarke, chief engineer for the Des Plaines Valley Mosquito Abatement district, said yesterday that this was because of the dry weather.

Each Friday evening at dusk Clarke's inspectors took up their posts to count the mosquitoes that landed on their bared forearms. Last year the average number of landings for all posts, in a five minute period, was 15. This year the average was 2-10ths of one mosquito.

In 1938 there were complaints that mosquitoes annoyed spectators at early fall football games. There's still some danger now, Clarke said, because warm rains would cause eggs to hatch.

Displays Parking Meters; Fined for Overtime Parking

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 10 [Special].—After demonstrating his product before the city council of Bloomington, Frithiof Burgeson, Chicago, salesman for a firm manufacturing parking meters, returned to the city hall yesterday afternoon to pay a $1 fine for overtime parking.

RACINE'S AUTO WORKERS INSIST C. I. O. OUST REDS

Racine, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special].—Racine United Auto Workers, in a statement by their council president, tonight demanded the ouster of "communists and their stooges" from the Wisconsin state central C. I. O.

The state body has been urging the seventeen Racine U. A. W. locals with their peak membership of 12,000, to affiliate with it. Of the seventeen, one has voted to affiliate, four have rejected affiliation, and two have deferred action. The other ten locals will vote this week. The state C. I. O. convention will be held in Racine Sept. 29 through Oct. 1.

Aaron B. Mentch, president of district council No. 8, which includes the seventeen Racine locals, stated tonight: "I think we are unanimous in the demand that the communists and their stooges who were placed in power in the state C. I. O. through intervention of John Brophy, national C. I. O. director, must go." Mentch charged the national C. I. O. officers with undemocratic interference, which placed the communists in a position to control the state body.

FIND GRANDSON OF W. G. McADOO SHOT TO DEATH

Devon, Pa., Sept. 10 (AP).—Socially prominent Clayton Platt III., 20 years old, was shot and killed tonight in the kitchen of his home near here. Police, who described Platt as the grandson of former United States Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, declared:

"We're calling it suicide for the present. I don't think there's any doubt about that, but there are some points we want to clear up."

An examination by Coroner R. C. Hughes showed Platt had been killed by a rifle bullet that penetrated his heart. Clayton Platt Jr., father of the youth, said his son shot himself with a rifle by holding it between his knees and pulling the trigger with his toes.

[The dead youth's mother is a daughter of Mr. McAdoo by his first wife. His second wife was Eleanor R. Wilson, daughter of President Wilson; his third Doris I. Cross of Los Angeles.]

CORN BELT'S BINS BULGE WITH WOE FOR AAA EXPERTS

War Complicates Problem of Loan Storages.

BY HOMER NEISZ.

What to do with the 257 million bushels of corn stored on farms in the corn belt as collateral for government loans is daily becoming more of a puzzle, both to farmers and the government.

Two weeks ago the problem was virtually settled so far as the farmers were concerned. Most of them had decided to let the government take the corn in payment of the loans, which were made last fall at the rate of 57 cents a bushel. That was about 17 cents a bushel more than corn was bringing on the market, and, besides, farmers needed the crib space to store this year's big crop.

Loan Renewals Urged.

Nobody wanted the corn. The farmers had it, and the government was obligated to take it off their hands. Farmers were preparing to deliver the corn to the government, and government agents were making every effort to persuade the farmers to keep it and renew the loans. The government had offered to pay the farmers 7 cents a bushel to hold the corn another year.

Then came the European war and an advance in corn prices. This complicated the problem, but did not solve it. Corn now is selling at country elevators at approximately the loan rate. Farmers are wondering whether to let the government have the corn or to renew their loans and hold it for still higher prices.

Insured Against Dumping.

If enough farmers decide to pay off the corn loans or to renew them and keep the corn, the government will be saved the embarrassment of having on its hands millions of bushels of corn, with no provision for getting rid of it. The department of agriculture has assured farmers and grain dealers that in no case will corn taken by the government on loans be dumped on the market.

On the other hand, if too many farmers retain title to loan corn, the Commodity Credit corporation, which made the loans through the Agricultural Adjustment administration, will be in possession of several thousand new grain bins, scattered throughout the corn belt, with nothing to put in them.

The Commodity Credit corporation has placed orders for 32,200 steel grain bins with a total storage capacity of 57,426,000 bushels to help store the corn that was expected to be released by farmers in payment of the loans. About 3,000 of the bins already have been shipped to county committees of the AAA in Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, South Dakota, and Nebraska.

An example of the effort made by the government to get farmers to renew the corn loans is a letter from the AAA committee of a northern Illinois county, dated Aug. 29 and sent to farmers in the county who had corn sealed under government loans. It read in part as follows:

"The future success of the storage and entire farm program depends upon the extent to which farmers are willing to keep their corn sealed on the farm at this time and work together for the best interests of the whole program.

Storage Aid Offered.

"Steel granaries may be secured at a very low price, and the Agricultural Conservation association office is now in position to give definite information in regard to storage facilities. The 7 cents per bushel will pay approximately one-half of the entire cost of the granary if you need additional storage facilities."

The bins referred to were not the ones bought by the Commodity Credit corporation. They were bins the AAA was urging farmers to buy for additional storage space on their farms.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 10 [Special].—America's new queen of beauty has brown hair and eyes, a light complexion, weighs 126 pounds, and is 5 feet 7 inches tall. She is Patricia Mary Donnelly, 19 years old, who was crowned Miss America here last night. She entered the contest as Miss Michigan. Betty Cornelia Averyt, 18, of Tulsa, Okla., was second, and Annamae Schoonover, 22, of Seattle, was third. Miss Schoonover is the holder of two college degrees.

MILK PRICE RISE TO BOOST USE OF NONFLUID FORMS

Dr. Cutter Cites Value of Various Products.

The increase in Chicago milk prices is expected to swing the public's buying habits toward greater use of evaporated, condensed, and powdered milk. This has happened in the past and, experts in the field agree, it probably will happen again. On Friday the price of fluid milk was raised 1 cent a quart for home delivery and 2 cents on purchases made in stores.

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, commenting yesterday on the anticipated increase in the use of milk in other than fluid form, said it does not involve hardships, but, instead, has some advantages.

"We are quite right in assuming that milk is essential to well being, but one of these days we will not oblige the milkman to carry to our doors millions of gallons of water yearly," said Dr. Cutter.

Easier to Digest.

"Evaporated milk [unsweetened] has many advantages over the fresh form. It is easier to digest, it is sterile, and it may be mixed with other foods or so diluted that its constituents will be adapted to the most delicate stomach. Moreover, it may be purchased almost anywhere and its keeping qualities are of long duration.

"Dried milk, or milk powder, may be the final answer to the marketing problem, as so much effort is wasted in transporting a great volume of water [88 per cent of the lacteal fluid]. The drying process preserves all the solids, which can be stored for an indefinite period, and transformed later into ordinary milk with the addition of water that has been boiled and then cooled.

"In cooking, and even as a drink, it is satisfactory from the standpoint of nutrition. Every element is present. Even vitamin D may be added by irradiation. In fact, most of our infant formulas are prepared from this product, and ice cream manufacturers, bakers, and cooks who cater to invalids rely upon this substance.

Economies Are Cited.

"Many economies may be effected by employing the evaporated or dried varieties. There is no spoilage and hence no waste, and many youngsters prefer the canned type with cereals.

"The only objection is the change in taste, but one may become accustomed to that, or even learn to appreciate the new flavor. The fine soft curd—so different from the hard lumps formed by fresh milk—aids digestion greatly."

During the last seventeen years the per capita consumption of evaporated milk has more than doubled. Less than 10 pounds for each person was used in 1925, while today the figure has risen to nearly 15 pounds a year.

AMERICA'S DEFENSE.

The defense of America from foreign attack and the protection of our entire hemisphere against aggression presents no very difficult military problem.

The navy, of course, is our first line; it is being strengthened and it should be strengthened further if foreign powers expand their navies to a point where they seem to overmatch us. Our great weakness today is in our land defenses. The President has just authorized an increase of 60,000 men in the army, but that must be regarded as inadequate. What we require is a field army fully trained, fully equipped, concentrated, and ready at a moment's notice to move to any point where invasion is threatened, whether it be Portland, Me., or Panama.

Even with the additions now ordered our regular army will number only 227,000, and a large proportion of these troops will be scattered, as at present, in garrisons at Panama, Hawaii, and elsewhere. Months would be required to bring them back to this country, even if the sea lanes were open. At the earliest moment the full authorized peacetime strength of 263,000 men should be attained.

There is no doubt, as Capt. Corpening said in an article published yesterday on this page, that our country has the men and the resources to equip and maintain a mobile field army. Experience has shown that we cannot rely on the National Guard for purposes of immediate defense in a moment of emergency. The various units are of unequal efficiency, and all of them require extensive field training to bring them up to the mark. At best, a good many months would elapse before most of the Guard regiments would make reliable troops to repel invasion. Before the last war the Guard had spent months on the Mexican border and when war was declared the regiments were mobilized again for service in France, but in spite of their previous preparation they were far from ready for service in the line. Another year elapsed before any considerable number of National Guard units were found fit for combat duty.

That was true then and it is no doubt equally true today. To repel any possible invasion we need a regular army large enough to prevent a landing on our continent, an army which will be wholly reliable and which no foreign power will dare to challenge; an army behind which the resources of the nation could safely be mobilized.

The recent maneuvers at Plattsburg and Manassas showed how far this country is today from possessing such a force. We lack the men, the weapons, and the experience in handling bodies of troops of this size. We cannot expect to improvise an army in the moment of emergency. If that could ever have been done, it cannot be done today when so much of an army's equipment is mechanized and requires months to manufacture and more months of practice before it can be used efficiently. The answer to our defense problem lies in the possession of a well integrated, mobile army, composed of regular troops, fully equipped before hostilities begin.

With a force of this size and quality we could announce a new Monroe Doctrine to the world. We could declare the Caribbean to be an American lake in which no foreign power would be permitted to have any armed strength. If the European nations which still have possessions in this area wished to keep them, they might do so only by agreeing to disarm them completely. We want no guns in the Caribbean bigger than .22s and no weapons more powerful than a smooth-bore shotgun.

America wishes to remain at peace and can do so if we have the force to repel any invasion which may be contemplated now or in the future.

THE MAILMAN AT PLAY.

The United States letter carriers have been having an annual convention in Milwaukee and from all accounts have been enjoying a happy session. They paraded frequently between their more serious sessions, sang songs, danced a little, and altogether set a standard for a good natured but orderly group of citizens away from their homes for a good time.

They voted to restrain other people's dogs that snarl at them and discussed ways to relieve their own dogs, which at times become painful after they have carried a heavy pack twenty miles or more a day.

The mailman out of his familiar and rather drab gray uniform is a lively fellow and Milwaukee reports real pleasure from his visit. The letter carrier himself thinks the uniform is not expressive of his personality and the convention recommended that the postoffice department spruce its carriers' appearance up a little. If a dash of color is added, so much the better.

The letter carrier not too long ago, in what many think of as a happier day, was the only personal contact the average citizen had with the federal government. It was in the days when Washington did not have an administrator for every farm, a tax collector for every man, and an inspector for every office. The postman brought the mail and the morning paper and was an honored servant of a respected government.

He was the contact between separated friends and families. No housewife ever settled down to the business of the morning until the postman came.

It may come as a surprise to many that your dignified letter carrier can, on occasion, dance a jig and in his unofficial and private capacity enjoy himself much like all other human beings. If he wants to brighten up his life with a livelier uniform we are all for it. Not enough change to take away the appearance in which he has won universal affection but just a dash of color to show the gay, human fellow he really is. Conventions are spaced too far apart if they are the only occasions on which the postman may relax, have fun, and enjoy social amenities with his fellows.

THE STRAW BOND RACKET.

Citizens of Chicago had every reason to believe, following a series of scandals a few years ago, that the vicious practice of releasing criminals on straw bonds had been cleaned up. Bond departments were established in both the Criminal and Municipal courts to verify the title and value of real estate scheduled on any bond.

This system has broken down in the Municipal court through the failure of some of its judges to obey the rules that they passed themselves. The rules required that all bonds be checked by the bond department. It develops that Judge Eugene J. McGarry, already under investigation on the charge of fixing a case to oblige an alderman, is also implicated in the straw bond racket.

In three years he approved fifty-six bonds scheduling a lot in Bellwood. In no case, so far as can be learned, was the bond submitted to the bond department as required by the court rule. The property has an assessed value of $97. Judge McGarry accepted it as the sole security on bonds running as high as $5,000. Only after the practice had been going on for three years did Chief Justice Sonsteby, the chief executive of the court, do anything to stop it.

If any further evidence were needed of Judge McGarry's complete unfitness for judicial office, this incident supplies it. The state's attorney is investigating all his bonds. If evidence is found that he exceeded the bounds of judicial discretion, a discretion that unfortunately is far too wide for men of his type, there should be prompt prosecution.

Meanwhile the court has an unfit judge on its hands. Pending action by the bar association to bring about his disbarment, or by the legislature to impeach him, he should be kept off the bench for the protection of the public. The chief justice should take his call away from him and assign it to other judges. Until he resigns or is removed the taxpayers cannot escape paying Judge McGarry's salary, but at least they should be protected against his perversions of justice.

Chief Justice Sonsteby has admitted that four other judges were engaged in the straw bond racket, short circuiting the court's bond department. He refuses to name the judges, although he asserts that he has stopped their violation of court rules. He says he will name them to the grand jury, which is no concession. He could be sent to jail if he refused the jury that information. That the racket went on under his nose for three years without any action on his part is a sad reflection on his administrative ability. His refusal to expose the racketeers leaves him open to suspicion that he is willing to condone their offenses.

The reputable judges of the court owe the public an answer to some other questions. Does the court pass rules merely for the delusion of the public and the amusement of its members, or does it intend to enforce those rules? If it intends to enforce them, when is it going to start?

BAD POLICE DISCIPLINE.

Policemen Samuel Blake and Francis Walker of the Chicago park district force appeared the other day before Municipal Judge Hartigan, charged with molesting a couple in Lincoln park. They had threatened the man with a gun. They got off with fines of $50 each, but still have to face a police trial board.

Policemen William Castleberry, Edward Solofski, and Nicholas Hradlo were suspended by Commissioner Allman on Aug. 10 for permitting three prisoners to escape from the county jail. The trial board has reinstated them, alleging insufficient evidence.

The Chicago police force has enormously bettered its reputation in the last six or seven years. In a very large measure its increased prestige resulted from the strict enforcement of discipline. The two cases cited above, on the facts available, give ground for suspicion that political influence is defeating disciplinary measures. If that is true, the police department is going to pot, and Chicago citizens should do something about it before conditions get worse.

SAFETY IN STEEL.

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

In guessing what is the most hazardous occupation many a layman—mindful of the steel industry's huge, white-hot ingots and bucketsful of molten metal swinging overhead, fiery blast furnaces, and mammoth forges—would select the steelmaker's. He would be wrong.

Thanks to continual emphasis upon safety in a conspicuously dangerous occupation, the steel industry now is rated as the third safest of the thirty leading industries, topped only by the tobacco and cement industries. The frequency of accidents in the steel industry has been reduced about 90 per cent in the past thirty years, and last year its showing was nearly 50 per cent better than the general average for major industries.

Four years ago steel was rated as the twelfth safest industry, ranking below tobacco, laundry, printing, cement, rubber, machinery, textile, glass, chemical, nonferrous metals, and the public utility industries. In the succeeding years it climbed to seventh, sixth, fifth, and third. Last year, for every million man-hours worked in steel mills, there were only 6.6 accidents, while in industrial plants generally there were 12.2 accidents.

Most industries in recent years have effected marked improvement of their safety records, although none to the extent of the steel industry. All occupations are dangerous to some degree. And all can be made very much less so by constant effort. That is the moral of the steel industry's new safety record.

I THOUGHT SO.

"No," snapped the old man, as he scanned the menu. "I won't have any mushrooms, waiter. I was nearly poisoned by them last week."

The waiter leaned confidingly across the table. "Is that really so, sir?" he said, blandly. "Then I've won my bet with the cook."—Edmonton Journal.

JOTTINGS FOR MONDAY.

Here is our theory about the underlying cause of the box office failure of New York's admirable world's fair: The plain American people who dote on world's fairs but must scrimp to see them are afraid of New York's reputation for costliness of living. This begets an inferiority complex, which is the greatest stay away reason in the world.

Zurich, in Switzerland, is holding an industrial fair this summer which has been averaging an attendance of 100,000 a day. It is giving New York a close race at the turnstiles, although its population, with suburbs, is only 250,000 or thereabouts.

The San Francisco fair, which our scouts report as "small but beautiful," is handicapped by its location on an island that has a summer climate fit for penguins. You need an overcoat every night, and if you sit for an hour or two at an open air show you yearn for football game blankets.

There are eleven towns in the United States named Warsaw. [Marjorie F. W., gifted poet of the Line, lives in the one that is closest to Chicago.] There are eighteen American Berlins, and nineteen ditto Parises. [Eolus, another Line poet, is an American Parisian.] We also have six Londons. This survey does not pretend to be exhaustive. There may be many more hamlets and crossroad postoffices that bear these names.

The response to this column's recent request for data on the Chicago career of Finley Peter Dunne ["Mr. Dooley"] has been excellent. All of these letters, containing much useful information, will be transmitted to his biographer.

TOWERS OF FAITH.

The gracious towers of France and England rise—
The loving handiwork of patient men
Who reared their aspirations to the skies
As shining testaments of faith. Now, when
The spires of Oxford and of Notre Dame,
The countless shrines that crown as many hills
Or nestle in fair valleys seem the game
For which the bloody god of battle spills
His grim destruction, is that faith most tried.
Not in the altar's hush nor learning's hall
Are ruthless battles planned; these are allied
To fellowship alone. Let them not fall!
We pray for nations in their troubled hours,
And pray protection for their lovely towers.

HYDROCHLORIC ACID IN DIGESTION.

WHEN we think of nourishment we do not consider merely meat, potatoes, bread, and fruit. Among the factors necessary to good nutrition we must include iron, vitamins, minerals, and—particularly—hydrochloric acid.

Ordinarily we are not obliged to imbibe this latter substance because it is manufactured within the stomach. Many physicians think that the gastric juice—of which it is a part—is the principal agent of digestion. In other words, the various dissolving essentials [enzymes] will not function as they should unless the meal is welcomed into the gastric pouch by this acid. Furthermore, when the mass passes into the first loop of the bowel [the duodenum] it must retain this same environment in order to promote other secretions.

Hydrochloric acid is not produced steadily and at the same rate during each of the twenty-four hours of the day. In other words, it is not required unless food is present, but it must be ready to greet edibles as they are swallowed. This is why nature has provided an emotional device which starts the cells working as soon as one catches the savory odors of cooking. We are all familiar with the expression, "The very sight or smell of food makes my mouth water." As the quantity of saliva is increased so is the gastric juice. Let a starving man pass an open kitchen door where dinner is being prepared and his hunger pangs will be augmented greatly. The nervous stimulus acts and secretions are poured out—whether or not the meal arrives.

Sometimes—if the mucous folds are irritated—too much acid may be generated. This is what happens in peptic ulcer, the sore serving as a constant goad. In such a situation it is impossible to cure the lesion because—as the concentration of the chemical rises—it may bathe the wounded surface and cause pain. Thus a vicious circle is established: Too much acid—more likelihood of an ulcer—more difficulty in healing. Condiments, hot sauces, etc., are likely to abet this overstimulation of the peptic glands.

As we would assume, the body knows about how much to pour forth. With most of us the amount is just right. But if the factories fall down on the job—furnish too little—we are forced to take it by mouth.

All sorts of symptoms are encountered when the quantity falls too low or is absent entirely. There will be a powerful effect—not only upon digestion but upon the blood—in the type of anemia known as hypochromic [deficient coloring matter]. Oral administration—combined with iron—may prove remedial, and those with pernicious anemia, in addition to taking liver, may be obliged to use as much as twenty to thirty drops of dilute hydrochloric before meals.

Even before anemia becomes noticeable most of these patients complain of indigestion, asserting that they are weak, depressed, and lackadaisical. Many will resort to advertised preparations without the slightest relief. After a while, however, some good physician makes a careful examination and discovers the shortage.

But even before prescribing the medicine the possibility that the discomfort is of nervous origin should be ruled out. A digestive upset may be due to a psychic stimulus. The one who is rushed beyond his capacity, who lives on excitement, may have too much or not enough acid—all the result of insults to which the nervous system has been subjected.

Recently, studies on children show the lack of hydrochloric is not confined to adults. In fact, one report indicates that in twelve out of thirteen cases of hypochromic anemia—in which no acid whatsoever was found—the ages varied from 10 months to 10 years.

Now, most of us need bother little about our "innards." Treat the stomach fairly and it will behave. Some, however, who approach middle life—and who have been generous eaters — will suffer from insufficient hydrochloric. We can compensate for the deficit by taking several drops before each meal, but no one should use any drug or medicine unless the need is clear.

POOR CIRCULATION.

T. H. writes: When my hands hang down for just a minute they burn and feel as though they are going to burst. The veins become enlarged. I have to raise them often to get relief. Is there something I can do about this condition?

REPLY.

This is a common complaint and usually is of little significance. Improving the return circulation will be of value. Calisthenics—arm exercises—should be practiced.

HOT FLASHES.

F. H. writes: Is it unusual for hot flashes to return after a woman has been free of them for years?

REPLY.

Yes. If this happens, it may be due to some cause unassociated with the change of life. However, theelin may be administered and, at the same time, a thorough physical check-up is advised.

IRITIS.

O. F. S. writes: Is iritis always caused by some infection in the body?

REPLY.

It usually is associated with some systemic malady, such as rheumatism, tuberculosis, sinus disease, etc. However, injury may be responsible.

ABOUT PROPAGANDA.

Eureka, Ill., Sept. 6.—As a reader of your valuable daily for many years I want to heartily indorse the advice you give your readers to beware of all propaganda in the present war situation. That is well and good. But—how about Clifton Utley who broadcasts over your own station? How about Dorothy Thompson [so called] who is filling the air nightly over the N. B. C.? How about H. V. Kaltenborn who is doing the same thing over the C. B. S.?

The most insidious propaganda we have is that which keeps pouring into the ears of the American people that they cannot stay out of this war. The big three mentioned above are the worst propagandists we have in this line of thought. Practically all of Mr. Utley's talk last evening was that the United States cannot keep out of this European war unless it ends very soon, which is not likely.

As owner of W-G-N you should compel Utley to change his tune or ask his sponsors to transfer him to some other station. This will make your advice to beware of all propaganda more consistent.

THE PROFITEER.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—The profiteer is already fastening its tentacles on the tired backs of the masses even though the foreign war is only in preliminary stage and even though we may contrive to stay out of it.

This administration has shown a marked tendency to exercise various types of control and now comes an opportunity for this inclination actually to benefit the vast majority by taking positive steps against this profiteer who by some seeming error was not included as one of the four horsemen. It is up to the press to lay the groundwork.

No factual or basic cause now exists for the menacing rise in the prices of foodstuffs to the United States consumer.

K. F. T.

WARNS OF PROFITEERING.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—The housewives who are buying sugar and other foodstuffs in excess of their normal purchases should be ashamed of themselves. They cannot buy and store enough foodstuffs to realize an appreciable saving or to protect themselves against a protracted shortage.

They have succumbed to war hysteria, and they are giving profiteers an excuse for increasing prices. There is a world-wide surplus of all foodstuffs. There is no justification for an increase in prices. Unless we challenge every price increase we shall soon be paying exorbitant prices for food, clothing, and shelter [rent]. L. H. TURNEY.

THE UMPIRE'S JOB.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—A reader tells you the umpiring in the American league is bad. The umpire is on top of the play; many things can, and do, happen on close plays that cannot be seen or judged from the grandstand, boxes or bleachers.

Why should an umpire be unfair to the White Sox or any other team? He is paid to call 'em as he sees 'em, and he does. You can't umpire a ball game from the grandstand. W. C. H.

WE MADE A SEPARATE TREATY.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—There is an attitude abroad in our land which finds expression in your editorial page. It goes like this: The harshness of the treaty of Versailles drove the German people to a point of desperation where they were willing to accept a leader like Hitler. Therefore, England and France, who imposed the harsh terms, are partly responsible for the Hitler régime. This country, which did not sign the treaty, does not share this responsibility.

Literally this is true. However, we Americans should not be too smug about it. The reason we did not ratify the treaty was that we did not wish to join the league of nations, which was inseparably united to the treaty. If President Wilson had been willing to separate the two, we would have ratified the treaty without hesitation.

This writer remembers those days distinctly. He remembers no voice raised to say that the terms were too hard on Germany; he does remember many people saying that they were not harsh enough. Since we, a belligerent and an interested party, raised no objection to the terms of the treaty so far as Germany was concerned, we share with England and France the moral responsibility for the hardness of those terms. Incidentally, why let Italy out? Italy was a signatory to the treaty on the allied side; she is now Germany's ally. It is only in the last few days that an Italian voice has been raised on the subject. It is only fair to remember also that the treaty has been modified again and again with at least the tacit consent of the allied powers.

This does not mean that it is our war, or that we should take part, now or at any time, but it is a reminder to us not to be self-righteous.

Dayton, O., Sept. 7.—I, Harry T. Hollen, was eighteen months a member of C battery, 6th field artillery. My serial number 125916. I am married and have two boys. I haven't been able to work for three years. My wife isn't able to work all the time. I am, at present, in the Soldiers' Home [Co. 2] at Dayton. I don't draw any pension nor an income of any kind. I get twelve packs of cigarets a month and that is hardly enough. I never have asked for anything like this before. I would like to have some cigarets and enough to go home to see my wife and boys. A round trip takes $6. I will close.

JUDGMENT LIMITATION.

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 6 [Legal Friend of the People].—I secured a judgment against a party for $40 in 1931 and have only received $10 on the judgment.

1. Does this judgment hold good at this time? How many years is it good in Illinois?

2. If this judgment is still good just what procedure must I take to compel payment on the remainder? C. O.

1. The Illinois limitation period is twenty years, but after seven years additional proceedings would be necessary in order to revive the judgment.

2. Apply at the office of the clerk of the court for what is called a sci. fa. You will be in a better position than we are to determine whether you understand it well enough to handle it for yourself.

SALARY CLAIM.

Chicago, Sept. 7 [Legal Friend of the People].—The company with which I am employed has not paid salaries for the last two months. They are trying to raise money to continue operations, but it is doubtful if they can. In case the company goes bankrupt, a receiver appointed, etc., [1] what claims are first? How are the claims classified, salaries, [2] notes payable, [3] judgment notes, etc.? 4. We have heard that salaries are always paid first, but would like to have your advice. V. S.

1. Wage claims would be paid ahead of ordinary creditors, if that is what you mean to ask.

2. and 3. These would be the same as ordinary creditors.

4. Correct. The secured creditors would have precedence over wage claims.

AN ALIAS STOLEN FROM PAL TRAPS HOLDUP SLAYER

Seized in Chicago After Year Long Search.

A year old Brooklyn murder was solved at the detective bureau yesterday because the murderer made a strange error. He used a wrong alias. Chicago and New York police did the rest.

Edward J. Lyons.

The murder was committed Sept. 18, 1938. The victim was Meyer Giebstein. He was in his little grocery in Brooklyn when a gunman entered. Giebstein resisted. The bandit shot him dead. Then he escaped with two companions.

Police Find a Clew.

New York police, seeking clews, learned that on the night of the murder a man registered at a Salvation Army hotel under the name of John Whitney. He was nervous, the hotel clerk said, and this aroused suspicion.

Police then found that at the time there was a convict named John Whitney in the New York prison at Elmira. Obviously, he wasn't the killer, but police noted that he came from Chicago, and his last address was a flophouse in Madison street.

This still had little significance until last week when the slayer's companions were seized in New York. They confessed their part and said they knew the slayer only as "Eddie from Chicago."

Old Clew Comes in Handy.

This development revived interest in the original John Whitney clew. Detectives felt there might be some connection between John Whitney, the convict, and "Chicago Eddie." Three days ago Detective Harold Fox of New York came to Chicago. Detectives Thomas Ladd and William Carney were assigned to work with him.

They went to the Madison street flophouse where John Whitney had lived before going to New York. The clerk at the hotel remembered Whitney. He also remembered Whitney's friends, among them one named Eddie.

Late Saturday night the three detectives nabbed Eddie at Madison and Des Plaines streets. He turned out to be Edward J. Lyons, 29 years old, an ex-convict.

Early yesterday Eddie confessed. Today he'll be started back to New York charged with the murder of Grocer Giebstein.

CALL SONSTEBY IN INQUIRY ON M'GARRY BONDS

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin said yesterday that Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court will be invited today to explain before the grand jury the routine and rules of the court in handling bail bonds. The grand jury is investigating bonds signed by Judge Eugene L. McGarry.

Chief Justice Sonsteby has charged that Judge McGarry and four other judges ignored and violated rules of the court in accepting surety for the release of criminals. One vacant lot with an assessed value of $97 was scheduled in fifty-six different cases before Judge McGarry and eleven times before another judge, and Prosecutor Austin said he is seeking evidence of a possible conspiracy.

A saloonkeeper, who also is a west side Republican precinct captain, is being sought. He was named by Harold Gendon, 6926 Oglesby avenue, owner of the $97 lot, as his bond agent.

THE POLICE HOPE THESE THIEVES EXERCISE CARE

Mrs. Ruth Bowman's job is managing the explosives magazine of the Trojan Powder company at Lemont. When she discovered last Tuesday that 960 sticks of dynamite had been stolen she notified the home office at Allentown, Pa. One of the executives came to investigate.

He and Mrs. Bowman went to the magazine yesterday. They found that 1,920 sticks more had been stolen. County highway police say that they don't care what happens to most thieves, but they hope the ones that took the dynamite don't bump into anything or get careless with matches.

Outdoor Art Show Is Held

Visitors looking at exhibits in the outdoor art show at 57th street and Stony Island avenue, which is a part of the Hyde Park Jubilee celebration.

Old Spirit Revived

With the opening of a vivid, eight day street show, the old 57th street art colony revived yesterday to demand once more recognition of its importance. In the shadow of the Illinois Central viaduct, and just a step away from the rumble of the trafic of Stony Island avenue, the little street stirred with its old spirit, and the rusty one story buildings looked out upon a familiar scene of artists, models, and spectators.

The exhibit was arranged as part of the Hyde Park Golden Jubilee celebration, in commemoration of Hyde Park's fifty years as part of Chicago. Dozens of artists stood proudly over their work, which ranged in content from nostalgic landscapes to a modern, macabre delineation of Germany versus Poland, a greenish shadow of Hitler engaged in a death struggle with his opponent.

CCC BOYS SAVE 150 HOMES FROM PRAIRIE BLAZE

Backfire Checks Flames in Stickney Township.

Civilian Conservation corps boys fought fire with fire yesterday. They started a backfire and cleared a strip of dry grass which was in the path of a prairie fire that was endangering 150 homes in Stickney township south of the Clearing industrial district.

The prairie fire then burned itself out after it had advanced southeastward over an area two miles square from 71st street and Narragansett avenue to the old state road.

The CCC boys, from Camp Palos Hills, built the backfire under orders of Foreman John Howes after bucket brigades formed by householders had fought side by side with firemen for hours. All the homes except one were saved from damage. It was unoccupied.

Neighbors Remove Furniture.

Neighbors helped Fred Powell and his family carry the furniture from their home at 7834 Narragansett avenue when it seemed that the flames would destroy it. The home did not catch fire, however.

Another prairie fire was blamed for destruction of a vacant frame building in the Illinois Central railroad's Burnside yards at 97th street and St. Lawrence avenue.

Westchester firemen extinguished a third prairie fire at Mannheim road near Roosevelt road.

Signal Tower Destroyed.

Flames of undetermined origin destroyed a signal tower and part of a wooden track elevation yesterday in the railroad network at 49th and Leavitt streets. Damage was estimated at $15,000. Railroad men said the many switches of the network would have to be operated by hand until the control equipment can be replaced. The elevation was that of the Chicago Junction and Grand Trunk railroads.

Fire caused damage of $600 to a viaduct leading into the Proviso yards of the North Western railroad before it was extinguished by Melrose Park and Bellwood firemen.

SWIFT BLOW TO CHIN PROVES THE UNDOING OF VERY LAZY BANDIT

The hand is quicker than the eye when it moves from the pocket to the chin, Daniel Anagnos proved yesterday. Anagnos is night manager of the restaurant at 2806 North Clark street. Yesterday a gunman held him up. Probably because he was a lazy bandit he ordered Anagnos to take the money from the till and to put it in his—the bandit's—pocket.

Anagnos took $62 from the till and made a move with it toward the robber's pocket. Then he flashed his fist upward and caught the bandit on the chin. When police arrived Anagnos had his money, the bandit's gun, and the bandit himself. The robber was Stanley Romanowicz, 2818 Henderson street, said to be an ex-convict.

ROBBERY VICTIM IDENTIFIES TWO SEIZED IN STREET

Detectives Earl Gorman, Edward Flynn, and Patrick Kennedy were suspicious of two strangers they saw leaving a restaurant at 955 Madison street early yesterday. The detectives questioned the men and learned meanwhile that the restaurant had just been robbed. The strangers were locked up. They identified themselves as James Arrigo, 628 South Racine avenue, and Herbert Ryan, 1818 South Harding avenue. They were identified at the detective bureau showup later by the restaurant cashier, Charles G. Sunmacher, as the men who robbed him of $32.54.

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

SAVED A FEW DOLLARS

by self treatment, but lost both his health and job. Don't take any chances with a venereal disease but see your doctor or this clinic!

THIS is the story of an unfortunate young man who made the foolish mistake of attempting to cure his venereal disease by means of self treatment. True, he saved a few dollars over the cost of proper medical attention, but now he is confined to his home by a health-wrecking complication that has caused him to lose his job!

Not all men, of course, resort to self treatment because of its imagined economy. Some do so because they wish to keep secret the fact that they are infected. But this is equally foolish because no reliable physician or clinic will ever be guilty of betraying a patient's confidence!

The dangerous thing about self treatment is that it may cause you to think you are cured when the infection still exists. It may drive away your symptoms and make you feel fine, yet germs can continue to lurk in your system and lead to costly consequences later on!

What can happen!

For instance, uncured gonorrhea may result in a sight-destroying eye infection, crippling arthritis, sterility, stricture, or serious prostate, bladder, kidney and other troubles. And uncured syphilis may be the cause of heart disease, blindness, deafness, apoplexy, paralysis, nervous breakdowns or even insanity!

Therefore, take no chances with either gonorrhea or syphilis but immediately secure proper medical attention—followed by dependable tests of cure! Such treatment and tests can be had from your family doctor, or you can get them inexpensively at the Public Health Institute.

Not only does the Public Health Institute provide the very finest of venereal disease treatment, but it is unusually exacting in making its tests of cure. Hence any person finally discharged as cured by the Institute can be confident that he or she is no longer infectious!

During the past 19 years the Public Health Institute has safeguarded almost 275,000 individuals from the ravages of venereal diseases. To date it has actually given over 5,000,000 examinations and treatments for gonorrhea and syphilis!

No one refused aid!

Because the Public Health Institute was organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, it is able to provide specialized venereal disease treatment at charges to fit the smallest income. The cost of a physical examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including blood tests, urinalysis and gonorrheal smears, is amazingly moderate, while individual treatments are available at fees so low that any employed person can readily pay them.

Nor does the Public Health Institute stop there in its efforts to make dependable venereal disease treatment available to the entire community. Even persons who are temporarily short of money can make arrangements to be cared for!

THREE YEARS

SELDOM is a newspaper known outside of its own bailiwick. For more than a century, The Philadelphia Inquirer had been a successful newspaper —yet one rather local in its editorial conception.

August 1936, when M. L. Annenberg became publisher, marked the beginning of the amazing revitalization which within three short years has brought wide recognition of its inspirational leadership. The Inquirer is now one of the most widely quoted newspapers—a national influence —a vital force throughout America.

In a period of industrial unrest, disturbed economic conditions, marked by the activities of pressure groups promulgating ideas at variance with the institutions of free America, The Inquirer was one of the few voices stirring the people from their apathy and defeatism.

Accepting its responsibility and obligation as an unterrified citizen, it is leading the way to restoration of those fundamental principles which were born in Philadelphia's Independence Hall and proclaimed by the Bell of Liberty.

Although it is in the forty-five counties of the Philadelphia area that this newspaper concentrates its greatest sale, lovers of free institutions in every section of the country demand The Inquirer. Today there is a bit of Philadelphia in every State and Commonwealth throughout the land.

Since August 1936, epitaphs have been written for ninety-seven newspapers lost by suspension or consolidation. Yet in this period the circulation of The Daily Inquirer has increased more than 36% ... and the circulation of The Sunday Inquirer has increased more than 50%.

What makes a newspaper succeed? Its character and purpose ... its ideals and courage ... its personality and vigor ... its spirit of sincere public service ... its quality of dramatic leadership. • • Today The Greater Inquirer re-consecrates itself as a national bulwark against the foes of human rights, a fortress to guard and defend fundamental American principles and standards.

LAKE DIVERSION PARLEY TO SEEK END OF POLLUTION

Citizen Group to Discuss Sewage Problem.

A conference will be held in Chicago this week to discuss methods of relieving the pollution problem resulting from the reduction in the diversion of water from Lake Michigan to the sanitary district canal.

Attorney General John E. Cassidy announced the meeting yesterday. It was called after residents of Joliet and Lockport protested repeatedly that because of the decreased diversion from the lake the current in the canal near those cities has become sluggish and, as a consequence, obnoxious sewage odors plague the communities. Similar complaints have been received from Justice Park and Lyons.

Reduced from 5,000 Cubic Feet.

The diversion was reduced from 5,000 cubic feet a second to 1,500 last Jan. 1 in accordance with an order of the United States Supreme court. This order was issued in 1930, when the flow into the canal was 6,800 cubic feet a second, and followed a long legal battle over the contention of several lake states and Canada that the diversion was lowering lake levels.

To reduce the flow, the sanitary district undertook a 177 million dollar construction program involving the construction of a network of intercepting sewers for sewage disposal which for generations has been taken care of by the Chicago river. Sewage diversion is controled by locks in the canal near Lockport.

Citizens' Group Asks Aid.

Since the reduction, Joliet and Lockport especially have been affected by the odors from the waters of the muck-laden canal. A citizens' group asked Attorney General Cassidy for aid, and he instructed William Clauson, an assistant attorney general, to call the conference. Sanitary district engineers, army engineers, and Joliet citizens' representatives are expected to attend.

One possible step, it was reported, may be the drafting of a petition to be filed with the Supreme court for a rehearing or for modifications limiting the lake diversion. The sanitary District already has a petition on file with the court seeking an increase in the diversion.

Mayor George T. Jones of Joliet recently complained to federal authorities of the odors and unsanitary water. Secretary of War Woodring notified him that for any change to be effected in the diversion it would be necessary to present a petition to the Supreme court asking modifications in the court's order

LIFEGUARD SAVES THREE IN LAKE; THEN COLLAPSES

Lifeguard Richard Johnson of Evanston wouldn't quit. He tugged at the oars the harder when high waves and strong winds drove him back yesterday. A mile off Main street he reached an overturned sailing kayak and rescued Robert Wellington, 17 years old, of 532 Sheridan road, and Peter Moulder, 18, of 623 Sheridan road, both of Evanston, and William Hahn, 18, of 110 6th street, Wilmette.

Lifeguard Johnson gets $125 a month for it. But he got a bonus yesterday: Cheers from a crowd of 300; praise from Beach Superintendent Edgar Salamon.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Hudson

New York, Sept. 10 [Special].—Contrary to reports from Europe, Madeleine Carroll didn't withdraw her divorce action against Capt. Phillip Astley. "I know it sounds Holly-goo-ish to say that we're still very fond of each other, despite the divorce action," says the blonde Irisher, "but it's true. I can only hope that in this terrible war he escapes injury." . . . The Canadian government, lukewarm to Cecil B. De Mille's proposed flicker about the Royal Northwest Mounted, has become keenly interested since war was declared. . . . For propaganda reasons. . . . New York critics raved over "The Rains Came," and made low curtsies to Zanuck and Director Clarence Brown. Ditto on "Golden Boy." . . . The war scare has laid up Norma Shearer at the Waldorf for a three day rest cure. . . . Because she hasn't told her mother yet, this column promised to withhold the name of the wealthy youngster who married Dario, the dancer. . . . To stop thinking about the war. Mrs. Charles Laughton goes to work tomorrow in "Vigil in the Night."

Laughton, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Cary Grant, Brian Aherne, Fred Perry, David Niven all are subject to war call, but none have been notified to report as yet. . . . Maureen O'Sullivan has cabled Hubby John Farrow that she is leaving Ireland for the United States on the Sept. 13 Clipper. . . . Richard Green reports for first fight scenes in "Little Old New York" tomorrow. It was feared more than the studio let on that his injured knee would cripple him for life. . . . Nancy Kelly so embarrassed when autograph fans mistake long haired Edmund O'Brien for Leopold Stokowski [he had to grow an acre of thatch for his rôle in "Hunchback of Notre Dame."] . . . Clark Gable and Carole Lombard, who were going to Europe, are talking about a trip to Africa for big game. . . . Robert Taylor and Barbara have canceled that European trip, too, and are open for suggestions.

Marlene Dietrich will sing three cowboy songs penned by Fred Hollander and Frank Losser in "Destry Rides Again." Wait until you get a view of the Dietrich stems in sheer silk hose under a spangled buckskin skirt! . . . The Dr. Laurence Spangards [Sigrid Gurie] have canceled their honeymoon trip to Honolulu because of the submarine scare. She and Spangard were married while she was making "Rio," preventing a honeymoon trip.

Nearly every Broadway musical trying to cash in on the war scare with corney finale numbers. . . . Glenn Miller, band leader who is moving up rapidly to challenge Goodman and Artie Shaw, was chucked out of a Broadway night club job about seven months ago. They said that he was small-timey. He's busting records every place he plays. . . . "Gone With the Wind," which will be released in November and which has to gross at least $5,000,000, figures to be the most badly hit by the war. That's a lot of dough to hammer out of the domestic market. . . . Lou Holtz is booked into Loew's State with a big show. He'll work with Singers Frances Faye and Sylvia Froos. . . . Benny Rubin is being tested at Warners' for the rôle of the Jewish soldier in "The Fighting 69th." Technical director on the battle scenes will be Limey Plews, who won the V.C. in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. Cagney, Pat O'Brien, George Raft, Humphrey Bogart, and William Holden will be in the picture.

The biggest audience reaction in "Elizabeth and Essex" is when Errol Flynn slaps Academy Award Winner Bette Davis on her you-know-what. . . . Tallulah Bankhead gave her best performance of the season at the Stork club with a midget for an escort. . . . MGM has not altered production budgets on "Not Too Narrow, Not Too Deep," next big flicker, and is starting work at once on a Hardy picture, a Kildare and "A Call on the President." . . . Plans for English productions are up in the air, although Hollywood believes British theaters will be running full blast within a month. . . . Warners' is readying for immediate production "The Sea Hawk," "All This and Heaven, Too," and the Bette Davis starrer, "We Shall Meet Again."

Frances Neal, in the George White "Scandals" choir, will wed one of the dancing Slate Brothers. . . . Showmustgoon item: "Three Stooges" turned in a show stopping performance the other night under an unusual tension. Two of the trio are brothers, Curley Howard and Moe Howard. Just before the curtain Curley received a telegram from the coast that their mother had died. He went on stage without telling his brother, and didn't show him the message until after the finale.

Good Morning!

I, who remembered so fondly the silent "Beau Geste" [shown in 1927], went somewhat hesitantly to see the talkie version of Maj. Wren's beloved novel. COULDN'T be any better than the first, I thought. Would it be as good?

I rise to advise you that it's all that the heart of a "Beau Geste" devotee could desire. Thrilling to the core and, besides that, deeply moving.

The tale, you will recall, is concerned with the adventures of the three Geste brothers in the French Foreign legion.

After the opening episode, which is one of the most quietly hair raising things you ever saw in your lives, the story is screened in "flashback." . . . The famous Blue Water sapphire—belonging to the Brandon family—disappears while Lady Brandon is displaying it to her nephews, Beau, John, and Digby Geste, who have from little boyhood been all for one and one for all. . . . The young men vanish, one at a time, each planning that suspicion may fall on him and be diverted from his brothers. . . .

The three reappear in the foreign legion and become involved in the peculiar case of a besieged fort in French Morocco. Here two of them find themselves under command of a mad and bad Sergt. Markoff—mad and bad, but, as Beau says to John "probably the best soldier we'll ever see in OUR lives. . . ." [In the original version the sergeant's name was Lejuane. Wonder why the change of monicker.]

The finale is a work of art.

The Gestes are brilliantly impersonated . . . Gary Cooper, as Beau, quite comes up to Ronald Colman, who played the character in the first version. Ray Milland and Robert Preston, are excellent in parts once portrayed by Neil Hamilton and Ralph Forbes, respectively. And Brian Donlevy as Markoff—WHEW! Not even a Beery could top him! Noah, you'll perhaps recollect, depicted the brutal martinet before. . . . Supporting rôles are in the ablest of hands.

Salaams to Mr. Wellman's direction—and the photography's immense.

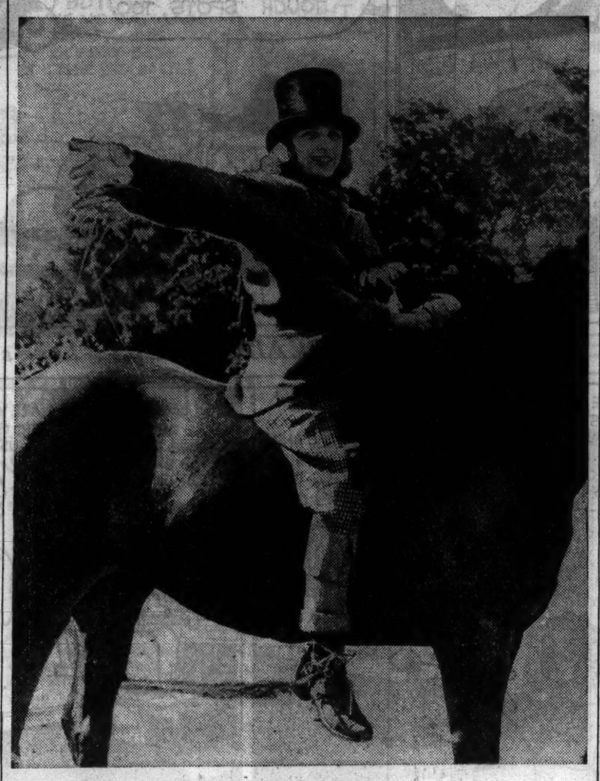
Winning Costumed Rider



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The Antiques of Jewelry Are Stylish Today

BY RHEA SEEGER.

If a raid on attic strong boxes does not yield enough old time treasures in jewelry, try the antique collections in town. There are some especially satisfying collections. One is in a romantic atmosphere of ancient flavor—a tiny shop, a bit dusty, crammed to the roof with authentic old pieces that will take the last penny.

The other is found in a luxury shop as glamorous as anything in Paris, sparkling glass cases, green Russian leather chairs, and plenty of luxurious swank.

Both are noteworthy—because of the authenticity of the many pieces of jewelry and the variety. All kinds of heavy gold necklaces, fascinating fat gold bracelets, watches, good big brooches, lockets hanging from heavy chains, odd rings. The old fashioned charm bracelets are really something, for the solid and chunky old charms positively clunk instead of rattle. There are exquisitely matched sets of seed pearl necklaces, long earrings twin bracelets, and bandeaux, all in the original tufted satin leather case. Fine rhinestones set like rose diamonds come in single pieces or in sets.

Bracelets of all widths, plain, embossed, filagree or etched are treasures that will never be duplicated. Most are one of a kind, and the twin bracelets of onyx set with seed pearls, the bracelets of simulated gold straps, the bracelets with dangling gold tassels, are the finds of this season of romantic costumes.

Rings, from the delicate cameos to the huge seal rings, the sentimental affairs to hold a lock of hair or a picture and the intriguing poison compartment rings offer the connoisseur and the appreciative shopper more than a few hours of thrill over lovely antique pieces, fast vanishing!

ChicagoRedCross Starts 2 Projects in Preparedness

As a part of our country's preparedness campaign the Red Cross is going into action. Last week the activities committee of the Chicago chapter met and planned the organization of bandage rolling groups, which will start work Wednesday. Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Mrs. Charles Garfield King, and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham head this committee.

Today Mrs. Irene Sidley, chairman of the Gray Lady Hospital and Recreation Service of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, announces that a special class for board members of some of the hospitals in which the service now operates will be formed.

The women's boards of the St. Luke's, Passavant, and Grant hospitals have been invited to join the ten week class, which will convene on Oct. 9. In the world war the Gray Ladies did splendid recreational work in federal hospitals. Theirs is not just a wartime job, however, for they function in peace time as well.

"The object of this class is to train a group of representative women, actively associated with hospital work, to assume key positions and take responsibility for the proper functioning of the recreation part of the Gray Lady program," states Mrs. Sidley's announcement.

Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor is vice chairman of the Gray Ladies and on the advisory committee are Mrs. Cudahy, Mrs. King, Mrs. Upham, Miss Margot Atkin, Mrs. Mark Trude, Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Lester Frankenthal, Mrs. William A. Pusey, Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. John C. Pitcher, Mrs. William C. Jackson, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mrs. John MacMahon, and Mrs. James J. McKenna.

Sunny Weather Swells Throng at Horse Show

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

For the first time in three years the annual Dunham Woods Riding club horse show, held yesterday in Wayne, was blessed with a bright and sunny day. The good weather brought out a record crowd for the morning performance. The throngs stayed until late in the afternoon, when the show was brought to a close by teams of hunters who rode into a setting sun for the first series of jumps and then eastward for the last half of the course.

Some of the memories the audience will treasure until next year's show were of Stewart Boal, clad in a pink ballet skirt and silver wings, floating over the jumps in the costume bareback jumping class; of Raymond Otis Mitchell skilfully negotiating a figure 8 course on his Gay Edgar to win the middle heavyweight jumper class; and of the Jones family, like the three bears, big, medium, and little, all dressed in blue riding habits, with gardenia boutonnieres, riding in the family class

Several Able Riders Thrown by Mounts.

The morning session was not without mishaps, for several expert riders were thrown. Mrs. Montgomery Orr, an honorary whipper-in of the Wayne hunt; Nathan D. McClure Jr. and John Dole were thrown, and Hope Casselberry took a nasty spill. No one was hurt seriously.

Miss Casselberry and her sister, Miss Caryl Casselberry, and their stepfather, Edgerton A. Throckmorton, took second prize in the family class, in which Mrs. Frances Orth Jones, Peggy Orth Jones, and Patricia Orth Jones placed first. Peggy Jones got the blue ribbon and Hope Casselberry the red in the children's horsemanship class.

The horsemanship and saddle horse classes reminded one rather of a merry-go-round, with gay music pouring from an amplifier and the horses stepping smartly around and around the track.

"This is the hardest class in the world to judge," a woman remarked to her companion during the three gaited pleasure horse event. "You define a pleasure horse."

Mrs. William D. Bangs Jr. Wins Several Events.

The judges' definition of one turned out to be the horse Mrs. William D. Bangs Jr. was riding. Mrs. Bangs had several wins to her credit during the day. Her husband helped Ralph Davis, the ring steward, with the loud speaker announcements. One of them foretold another pleasant event in store for the Wayne community, the first formal Wayne hunt, to be held next Sunday morning. The third annual hunter trials will be held on Sunday, Oct. 22.

The Wayne fire fighting equipment fund receives the proceeds from the horse show. The Wayne Boy Scouts were in charge of serving a buffet luncheon in the Coach House, and the Girl Scouts dispensed soft drinks near the ringside. Mr. Mitchell, chairman of the show, and Mrs. Mitchell entertained at cocktails after the afternoon performance.

The judges were Perry Dryden of Geneva and J. Parish Lewis and Andrew Montgomery of Milwaukee. Unofficial cameramen were Corwith Hamill, who took many movies of his wife and her brother and sister, Harold B. Smith and Miss Betty Smith, on their horses, and Samuel Insull Jr., who took still pictures.

Valeria Harris and Southerner Set Their Wedding for Sept. 30

BY JUDITH CASS.

INVITATIONS to the marriage of Miss Valeria Harris and James Huntington Symington on Sept. 30 were mailed on Saturday by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris. The wedding will take place at 4:30 o'clock in St. James' church, with a reception following in the Harris apartment at 20 Cedar street.

Miss Harris will have her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lincoln Small Harris, for her matron of honor, and an old friend, Miss Elizabeth Gilbert of Lancaster, Pa., will be the maid of honor. The bridesmaids, many of whom were school friends at Mount Vernon, will be Miss Jean Kellogg, Miss Nancy Freund, Mrs. Willard Adcock, a cousin of the bride; Mrs. Vincent Andrus of New York, the former Dorelle Moulton of Kenilworth; Mrs. Kennedy Creevy of Cambridge, N. Y., who was formerly Miss Margaret Brundage of Chicago; Mrs. Charles D. P. Hamilton III. of St. Louis, the former Jean McWilliams of Chicago; Miss Katherine Rockhill, and Miss Barbara Sincerbeau of New York, and Miss Echo Guiou of Omaha.

Bridesmaid Escapes War Perils in Europe.

Miss Harris was relieved to hear from Miss Guiou last week, for the young woman had been in Berlin this summer and arrived in New York just after the war broke out.

Charles H. Symington of Detroit will be his brother's best man. Two other brothers, W. Stuart Symington of New York and Francis P. Symington of Baltimore, will be among the ushers. They are sons of the late Judge and Mrs. W. Stuart Symington of Baltimore.

Also ushering will be a brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Lawrence M. Balliere of Baltimore, and some cousins, Thomas R. Symington and Robert E. L. and Stuart Symington Taylor, all of Baltimore. The last two are twins who look exactly alike, so the bridesmaids will have to take care.

Bridegroom's Princeton Friends to Be Ushers.

The remaining ushers, mostly Kent school or Princeton friends of the bridegroom, are Richard Orrick and Richard Kenney of Baltimore, Fielder S. Dudley of Short Hills, N. J.; Louis Lee Haggin II. of Louisville, James T. Skelly Jr. of Wilmington, J. Morgan Denison of Philadelphia, Lincoln and Huntington Harris, brothers of the bride, and Dr. Norris O. C. Blanc of Tobago, British West Indies.

Dr. Blanc has been visiting the Ballieres in Baltimore this summer and will come west with them for the wedding. It was in Tobago that Dr. Blanc, Mr. Symington, and Miss Harris met.

Most of the out of town guests will not come until the day before the wedding, in time for the bridal dinner, which Mr. and Mrs. Harris will give at the Saddle and Cycle club. Miss Lily Fleming will give a dinner party for Miss Harris on Sept. 28.

Mr. Symington and his bride will be at home after Nov. 15 at Hillcroft, in Forest, Va.

Celeste Wakem to Wed T. A. Mohlmann Thursday.

Mrs. Wallace Wakem will return from Nantucket, Mass., where she has had a house for the season, in time to give a luncheon at the Saddle

They Hunted a Fox

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright: 1939: By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

INSTALMENT 1.
AN OUTSIDER.

That first evening at Chenerys, what had Alison seen? Merely a conventional English dinner table, bordered with frank, wholesome, out of door faces, glossy shirt fronts alternating with expensive evening gowns which somehow managed to look "county."

Even the thing that so shattered her at the gray edge of dawn had brought no warning of horror to come. A grim prank, but it had shocked none of the others. These people would have been puzzled by her reaction, putting it down to her being an outsider, an American, to her peculiar and vaguely suspect literary activities.

Effective and capable on her own ground in London, Alison had to admit that here in Gloucestershire she was a fish out of water. The meal preciuding her first— and probably her last!—hunt ball was proving a definite ordeal. She looked longingly at Colin, seated far from her. He seemed to be making splendid progress with the toothy, rawboned damsel on his right. His utter Englishness, his orthodox profession of medicine, passed him as correct. "Nice fella, Ladbroke," would be the verdict. She looked back to her host. Stranded like herself for conversation, Tom Boldre was signaling the butler to fill up her glass, and this at last gave her something to say.

"Please!" She waved the wine away. "I can't risk this, you know. Wynn should have warned you I'm the stupidest sort of person, a world's worker who's no good at parties."

Tom Boldre's jaw dropped. With comic dismay in his baby blue eyes he turned a wary survey on her sleek sun-gilded head and backless bronze chiffon.

"You—your work?" His tone was hollow.

"Why, yes, I thought you knew. I'm in the London office of an American publisher—Boxall's; though I'm giving up my job next month when I marry Colin. It's through my work I met your sister-in-law. Surely Wynn told you I was the first person to read her book?"

Tom exploded. "Utter nonsense, Miss Young! Sheer bilge, that's what it is. Wynn thinking she can write a book! Or wanting to, there's the point."

Tom Boldre's jaw dropped, he turned a survey on her sleek head.

"But a book about horses!"

"Humph! Why write about 'em? Ride 'em, I say. That's what they're for, eh, Fred?"

Alison's other neighbor, a chirpy, red cheeked little man, snorted vehement approval. Tom's denunciation continued:

"Fancy stewing indoors, scribbling, when you might just as well be—be—— "

"Doing something worth while?" prompted Alison, and was instantly ashamed, only to realize that no sarcasm could touch her host, whose naive self-assurance, no less than his kindness, formed part of his charm. Easy to see why every one held him in such affection . . . and why Colin, since schooldays, had lost sight of him completely.

Wynn had noted the bland barb. Her eyes were dancing. Alison felt a brief envy for the girl who, although she had gone so far outside this closed circle of English county, could still fit into it, a hand into a glove. Wynn Marchmont, taking her part in the hunting talk which Alison found unintelligible; Wynn with eyes like purple gray stars on a frosty night, slim, electric, owning nothing of fatigue! Yet Alison knew she had been up at six that morning, taking her pupils riding in Richmond park, had packed a bag, jolted in a ramshackle car across England to Chenerys, and on top of that spent a solid hour pottering round the stables, just to please Tom.

But Wynn was home again, and loving it. Alison wondered how much of her sparkle was kindled by the lean, nut brown man sitting directly opposite—Derek Boldre, Tom's younger brother. She also found herself comparing Derek's diffident, stoic quality with Tom's genial ease, and noticing again how the strangely light, tawny eyes lit at times with too mordant humor, at others with something less easily identified.

There were parallel contrasts, she reflected, between Pat Boldre and her sister Wynn and between the two Boldre men. In each case the younger had the leaner end, for while Wynn struggled along as a poorly paid assistant in a riding stable, Derek was trying to keep himself in a London veterinary practice. All the Boldre money was needed for Chenery and for the widows of two intervening brothers killed in a plane crash in Kemja.

With a start Alison woke to the fact that Tom was speaking—had been speaking for several moments.

"Donkey in the paddock with her. O, yes, that'll soon calm her down!"

Thank heaven, he was happily talking horses with the strident girl on his far side. Now, though, her own right hand neighbor, Major Fitts, was addressing a question.

"See here, Miss Young, what's all this about Wynn Marchmont writin' a book?"

"O, yes! It's a first rate handbook for amateurs on riding and the care of horses. My firm's bringing it out." [He needn't know this had been made possible only because Alison Young, recognizing good material when she saw it, had rearranged and in places re-written the manuscript Wynn had so shyly brought into Boxall's office].

"Really!" Major Fitts screwed in his eyeglass. "You don't say! What's she likely to make by it, eh?"

Hardened though Alison was to brazen inquiries about authors' earnings she was yet taken aback by the major's paralyzing directness.

"Impossible to tell." She took refuge in the usual vague phrases. "Even with a well known author, you know—— "

"She's a good gal, Wynn," Fitts assured her. "She could do with a bit of the ready, I dare say." He drank his champagne.

Wynn could. That, Alison well knew, was why she had tackled writing in the first place, what had given her courage to walk into a publisher's office. It was blind chance, of course, that had brought her to Alison—and how curiously chance had continued to work! First the riding lessons Alison had taken in exchange for laboring with the manuscript; next Colin's coming to the stables one afternoon and meeting Wynn's vet friend, Derek Boldre.

"This old school tie stuff," Alison had laughed to Wynn when their menfolk quickly claimed acquaintance—though to be sure Derek had been a small boy when Colin used to spend half term holidays at Chenerys. Anyhow, the encounter had led on to supper in Alison's flat —and by easy steps to this week-end invitation.

"They're in love." Alison had whispered it to Colin while the two of them had prepared the scratch meal in her minute kitchen. "Can't you see it written all over them?"

She had felt then, and even more keenly believed it now, that the other couple's poverty and absence of prospects presented a grim obstacle in their path. Presumably it accounted for the lack of any formal engagement. How lucky she and Colin were to have their difficult time behind them!

Colin, too, had worn frayed collars and a skintight dress coat. Only five months ago, his practice unpaid for, he hadn't dared to propose, whereas hey, presto! Out of an adventure so shattering she still hated to think of it had come peace, utter bliss, and if not exactly plenty then the signed and sealed promise of it.

INSTALMENT XXXI.
LOVE BORN ANEW.

At 9 o'clock Ambrose Fleming dialed Sheila's number.

"Did I wake you?"

"You got me away from an ironing board when I had just scorched a ruffle and was about to break my back. I've been up for ages."

"So have I——What doing? Marking time. What are you doing?"

"How do you mean—What am I doing. I'm talking with you."

"I mean, what are you doing later?"

"How much later?"

"Well, if two people wanted to lunch in Santa Barbara and got started in about fifteen minutes they'd get there in time for a swim first."

"I'll be waiting," said Sheila and she was having a little trouble with her heart. It was fluttering faster than she had ever thought it would flutter again.

She made herself as beautiful as she could. There wasn't much to do, and fifteen minutes later as Ambrose Fleming's big roadster pulled in at the curb she emerged from the front door of her apartment house.

Lunch at the Santa Barbara Biltmore was preceded by a swim and a cocktail. Dinner was preceded by a second swim and two cocktails. During the interim they found their way to the Old Hope ranch and sat in the shade of a live oak and looked at the ocean.

There isn't much to be said about the situation. Their conversation wasn't brilliant, but they liked being together. There was no awkwardnesses. They felt like old friends. Just before it was time to go for a second swim, Ambrose astonished himself by saying that he had always envied servants.

"Because of the steady pay?" smiled Sheila.

"No," said Ambrose, "but because when the second parlor maid sits with her back to a tree and admires the view, the third footman falls asleep with his head in her lap."

"Which do you envy, the man or the maid?"

"Both, I think," he said. "She must like it too."

He elbowed a little nearer. Sheila did not move.

Presently he laid his head, with its strong dark hair in her lap and smiled up at her.

"This never happened to me before," he said, "not really. I'd like to be your servant always, if you'd let me."

"I wouldn't want you for a servant," she said. "But I suppose when there was a convenient tree and a nice view we could pretend."

She smiled a little tremulously and pushed her long beautiful fingers through his hair.

"I suppose you know," she said bravely, "that I've been married and have a boy big enough to ride horses and rope calves."

"Whatever you say makes me a little happier than I was before—if that's possible. Are you happy?"

"I think," said Sheila, "that it goes beyond that. I feel like a line in the Bengal Lancer, 'to the stars on your bugles blown.' And I think I'm going to cry. I don't often and I won't again."

He rose to a sitting position and held her close while she had her cry out. It didn't take long.

She had found shelter and protection. That was nothing to cry about. Young Ronny's future was assured. No food for tears there. She was crying because she had gone after these things in a deliberate cold-blooded way and had got them and was ashamed.

"I ought to tell him," she thought. "I ought to tell him."

But she didn't tell him. She didn't have to.

"Brose," she said, "if I've ever been mean and cold and calculating because I was poor and up against it, does it matter?"

"No," he said, "because so have I, and that's over, and life is about to begin."

She turned her face willingly and gladly to meet and pasture his lips. And became rosy and almost too lovely with the saving grace of love that had been born in her anew.

[The End.]

The Housewife

When we stopped to admire some beautiful handmade bowls and plates the other day we thought they were silver. But we found them light as a feather, for they were of hand wrought aluminum. Some were Swedish in design and were especially enchanting. Other items were of American design. All looked exactly like silver.

There were handsome service plates with a simple border pattern, huge fruit and salad bowls with accompanying servers, which would make stunning wedding gifts, candelabra, ash trays, and mayonnaise bowls and spoons. Smaller bowls would be charming for flowers or candies, or nuts. Every piece was beautiful, the sort of thing that never goes out of style because it is made by a real craftsman. And none was expensive.

On the House

Most homes have their quota of light colored leather and kidskin accessories—desk sets, photo frames, lamp bases, and the like. After these have been cleaned several times they often develop a rather dingy tone which is hard to freshen.

If you prefer an attractive tan to a drab white try rubbing the following mixture on them: Ten drops tincture of saffron to three tablespoons of olive oil. Use a soft flannel for the application and have the article perfectly clean and free from any grease spots. Two coats of this mixture should be sufficient.

Pancakes with maple sirup or brown sugar sirup, if light, tender, and nongreasy, are excellent breakfast fare once a week or oftener during the fall and winter months. They are satisfying and filling and should be accompanied not only by sirup, but by plenty of butter as well.

Plain pancakes may be made with sweet or sour milk, and with part whole wheat flour when you like. Sometimes a few slices of crisp bacon, crumbled into the batter, add a note of variety that is pleasing. Fruit may be added to plain pancake batter on occasion. Blueberry pancakes probably are the most popular of the fruit ones. They're excellent for Sunday breakfast or for company occasions. And they may be served as a luncheon dish, too.

Plain Pancakes
[About fifteen]
2½ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons melted butter

Sift together dry ingredients. Beat egg, add milk and melted butter. Add to dry ingredients and stir until dry mixture is well moistened. The batter will be somewhat lumpy, but the lumps will cook out. Drop batter by spoonfuls onto a sizzling hot griddle and turn with pancake turner when bubbly. Serve hot with butter and sirup or jelly.

RICHER PANCAKES: Add another egg to the batter.

SOUR MILK OR BUTTERMILK PANCAKES: Reduce the amount of baking powder to ½ teaspoon, add 1 teaspoon soda, and use sour milk or buttermilk in place of sweet milk.

WHOLE WHEAT CAKES: Substitute 1 cup graham or whole wheat flour for 1 cup white.

BLUEBERRY PANCAKES.

Use the recipe for plain pancakes, but sift a tablespoonful of sugar with the dry ingredients. Add ¾ cup fresh or drained canned blueberries to the batter just before dropping it.

Quick Buckwheat Pancakes
[About ten]
1 cup white flour
1 cup buckwheat flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1 beaten egg
2¼ cups milk
4 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift flour with salt, baking powder, and sugar. Add egg and melted shortening to milk. Add liquids to dry ingredients all at once and beat the batter until smooth. Bake in ungreased, hot griddle, turning the cakes only once. Serve hot with sirup.

Cornmeal Pancakes.
[Eight to ten]
1 cup flour
1 cup cornmeal
3 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups milk
1 egg

Sift flour and combine with other dry ingredients. Beat egg and add milk. Combine two mixtures and beat until smooth. Cook on one side and then on the other, on a hot griddle. These are particularly good with bits of crisp bacon added to the batter.

Frozen salads are ideally suited to summer luncheons and bridge desserts. There are many good recipes for these chilly refrigerator salads in Mary Meade's booklet, "Freeze the Salad." The booklet is on sale at the Tribune Public Services, 1 South Dearborn street, and lobby of Tribune Tower for 3 cents, or the booklet will be mailed to you for 5 cents in stamps.

Two-Piecer Is Serviceable

WOMAN'S AND MISS' TWO-PIECE DRESS.

Every serviceable autumn wardrobe needs a woolen two-piecer, and here is a favorite we think you'll like for its simplicity and classic lines. The skirt is a flared model that fits the hips beautifully. Topping this skirt is a simple blouse with or without collar, and with long sleeves that puff at the shoulders. Buttons do decorative duty down the front. The paneling achieves lovely lines and perfect fit for the blouse.

Use woolens, either tweed or other types, for this two-piece ensemble. Either unite two fabrics and colors, or make the ensemble of one.

Style No. 2938 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 54 inch material for the skirt, and 1⅞ yards for the blouse.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: After spending eight hours fishing in the blazing sun last week-end, we decided to indulge in our usual game of rubber bridge. This was our original mistake for, sunburned and weary as we were, we should all have gone to bed, where we belonged, and dreamed blissfully of the big ones that got away that afternoon. The session was a comedy of errors, climaxed by the following hand, at 3 a. m., which awoke the rest of our bungalow and had the neighbors threaten us with the constable:

"East, dealer.
"North-South vulnerable.
"Rubber bridge.

"The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds
3 clubs	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

"As you can see from the bidding, the sun had struck a vital spot in our heads, and that is about the only excuse I can offer for such bids. I was sitting South and, when East bid three clubs, I knew without a doubt he was 'sticking his neck out' and, sunburned though it was, I determined to 'swat' it. The play of the hand was very simple. South opened the heart king, then shifted to a small club and, when the carnage was over, East was down five tricks. When the last card was played, West was ready to keel-haul his partner and throw him to the sharks, when East very calmly pointed out that a grand slam in diamonds, spades, or no trump was a laydown and wasn't the 900 points worth it to save 2,410 points? Correct though he was, it certainly hurt to have that bid of his justified, and that is why I am writing to you, Mr. Culbertson. Was there any excuse for such a bid, despite the outcome? And, with the bidding as stated, was it possible for us to reach a grand slam? We use the Blackwood convention for slam. Please tell us how the experts would have bid the hand.—J. J. D. Philadelphia."

This is the first time that I have run up against sunburn as an alibi but, in all fairness, it is about as good as any other. Nevertheless, I do think that North-South might have overcome their affliction long enough to cash in on the seventeen cold tricks that Fate had distributed to them. If they had had only thirteen or fourteen tricks, sunburned and weary as they were, there would have been excuse for failing to reach a grand slam, and for accepting a paltry 900 points from the opponents, but with four aces, four kings, three queens [not to mention two long solid suits] it appears they should hang their heads just a trifle.

South's double of three clubs was not so far-fetched, but North's leave-in was indefensible. South had opened with a spade bid and might just possibly be interested in hearing about North's A-K in that suit. North had an excellent six card diamond suit of his own, no losing clubs, and the heart queen to boot. From the moment South opened the bidding with one spade, North should have thought about a slam, and should not have abandoned that hope merely because South doubled an adverse bid. As a matter of fact, North's first response should have been three diamonds instead of two, but this would have been unimportant if he had taken the correct action later. Accepting the first few bids as a basis for comment, the sequence should have been:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 spade	Pass	3 diam. [?]
3 clubs [?]	Double	Pass	4 clubs
Pass	4 diam.	Pass	4 no trump
Pass	5 no trp.	Pass	7 diamonds
Pass	Pass	Pass

Finally, as to the "excuse" for East's neck-stretching three club bid, well it worked, didn't it?

and Cycle club on Thursday for her granddaughter, Miss Celeste Wakem. Miss Wakem will become the bride of Theodore Albert Mohlmann later that afternoon in a quiet home ceremony.

The service will be read at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson of the Fourth Presbyterian church in the apartment of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles J. Haines, and Mr. Haines. The latter will give Miss Wakem in marriage.

Barbara Austin Engaged to Harvard Law Student.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Charles Austin gave a tea at their home in Glencoe yesterday to announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Keith, to Robert Lake Foote, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lee Foote of Charlottesville, Va. Mr. Foote is visiting his fiancée and her family, so he was on hand to receive the congratulations and good wishes of the friends who had been invited to the tea.

The wedding will not take place for some months, for Miss Austin is going to finish her college course at Vassar before getting married. She will be a senior this year. Mr. Foote is a graduate of Yale and is starting his second year in the Harvard law school. Miss Austin made her debut two years ago. Her sister, Patricia, will be a debutante this season.

Miss Betty Keator, who is not making a formal debut this year, nevertheless is included in most of the festivities, for many of her former classmates at the North Shore Country Day school are making their bows. Miss Keator and her mother, Mrs. Clark L. Keator, are entertaining at luncheon today at the Indian Hill club for five Winnetka buds, Miss Patsy Blackett, Miss Mary Walsh, Miss Roxane McKenzie, Miss Anne Daughaday, and Miss Christina Freeman. Miss Keator will return to Pine Manor for her last year later this month.

Friends of the Edward Hegeler Carus family will be glad to learn that Mr. and Mrs. Carus and their five children sailed last week from Genoa in the Rex and are expected to arrive at their home in La Salle by the end of this week. The Caruses went to Germany some time ago.

Carolyn Barrett to Sail from Sweden Sept. 19.

The Arthur M. Barretts were relieved to receive a cablegram from their daughter, Miss Carolyn Barrett, informing them that she will be sailing from Sweden on Sept. 19 in the Gripsholm. Miss Barrett and Miss Barbara Shepler of Harrisburg were traveling in the British Isles and the Scandinavian countries this summer. Mrs. William S. Howe, the former Barbara Barrett, and her baby, Barbara Anne, will return to their home in Houston, Tex., with Mr. Howe this week.

John Hooker and his son, Kelly, returned on Saturday from a fishing trip, so the Hooker family circle in Winnetka is complete. The other two sons, West and Ensley, are at home and so is the only daughter of the family, Mary. She, as usual, will spend the winter with her parents on the north shore, but the three sons will be returning to their studies later this month. West, who will be a senior at Cornell, will be president of the student council this year. Ensley will be a sophomore at the same college and Kelly will continue the study of law at the University of Virginia.

The Evanston Junior league's preparations for its Follies, a musical revue to be presented in November, will start today with a meeting this morning at the Georgian hotel. The Follies will be given on Nov. 9, 10, and 11 at the Skokie school auditorium.

A restaurant on the near south side has never been locked in its twenty-five years of existence and the owner has ordered there must always be at least one diner in the house. This emergency has not arisen in a quarter of a century, if we can believe what we are told.

Avoid Talking About Illness Before Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Excessive talk of ailments and operations in the presence of children creates in them an unwholesome fear. Even if the narratives they hear or overhear aren't such as to arouse actual apprehension over definite pains they may have had, much adult talk before them about diseases and symptoms or just constant dwelling upon little maladies may lead to too great preoccupation with their bodily state.

Generally speaking, there is too much talk of sickness in the air, much of it not checked before the children.

The enthusiasm that people have for reliving their operations is a joke of long standing. The exchange of symptoms, the discussion of maladies, remedies, and treatments is a habit that grows on people.

Do you spare your children this? Whether you believe in Christian Science, New Thought, osteopathy, or medicine is beside the point. Dwelling unnecessarily upon bodily sickness or disease or the bodily state is not mentally wholesome.

But if you are desirous of talking on such subjects, or if your friends are, or if there is some help to be gained by the exchanging of information on symptoms, don't do it before the children. Such thoughts are not normally a part of their lives. They are, as a rule, so free from any consciousness of their bodies as a handicap or burden, that it is wrong to turn their thoughts constantly in that direction.

If you notice you will be surprised to see how much people talk this way before children. You may even find yourself doing it. It may be only, "How are you feeling today? Is your headache gone? Perhaps it was just nerves again. Nerves can give you a pain almost anywhere. Or it may have been tiredness. Bill's tired all the time nowadays, and he has constant headaches."

Choose Only Sensible Shoe for Daily Wear

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

To that great big feminine army whose war cry sounds pitifully like: "Ouch, my feet!" here's a fact for you to ponder. It's not a new fact nor a startling one, but it is one for you to think about right now while you're stocking up your fall shoe wardrobe:

Women suffer infinitly more from foot trobule than do men.

Women suffer more from foot malformations brought on by ill fitting shoes than do men.

The foot troubles of men are due more largely to muscle strain, turned out feet when walking, excess body weight, and so on. Women suffer these ills and in addition they collect a shocking number of corns, callus patches, malformed large toes, and the like.

It's fairly obvious that the moral is from the esthetic point of view; namely buy shoes as men do so toes can wiggle around and so that the long toes do not crowd up to the very tip of the shoe.

Walking up the shopping avenues and down, over the side streets with shoe window displays, we are heartened by the perfectly grand looking women's shoes on sale now that do permit of just this length, wiggling and comfort. No matter how much you stock up on spike heels for partying, swear no one will dissuade you from buying one good pair of shoes with medium heels and sufficient width across the toes for easy freedom. One pair is all we urge. We know once you get into this type of shoe you're a convert.

You don't want the shoes too wide, of course, because often the small toe suffers from carrying too big a load. The toe of the shoes should be the same shape as your foot without putting weight on it.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Funny, isn't it, the way we women get a yen for a new and different hairdress as soon as Labor day has blended into the past? Virtually every woman we know is discontented with her coiffure and wondering what to do about it.

Elegant clothes demand that hair look elegantly dressed. Not necessarily elaborate. Heaven forbid! But sleek and trim and as if there were a reason for the placement of every single hair. The tumbled "glamor girl" bob that has degenerated into just plain sloppy hairdressing seems to us entirely out of keeping with the precise, piquant fashions in dress.

A good basic cut is what most heads need, a cut that is purposeful, designed to be the foundation of hair dressed in a certain way. We might venture a suggestion that a little less emphasis on waving and a little more on good, skilled cutting and shaping is what women will demand of their hairdressers this season. The hairdressers who are real craftsmen won't know what depression is.

Our best advice is that short hair is more elegant than long hair, especially for the mature woman. So if your dish in clothes is elegance, get that hair up off your neck.

169 OPEN NATIONAL AMATEUR TODAY AT NORTH SHORE

WILLIE TURNESA DEFENDS TITLE IN SIX DAY EVENT

Five Ex-Champions Compete.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The forty-third amateur tournament of the United States Golf association will open today at the North Shore country club with the first eighteen holes of the thirty-six hole qualifying round.

The transaction of these eighteen holes is only the first section of a program which will see, within the next six days, the field of 169 starters reduced by Saturday to the No. 1 amateur golfer of the republic. This is the first time Chicago has seen the biggest simon pure show of them all since 1931, but interesting as was that field which Francis Ouimet defeated, it hardly compares with the variety of ages and competitive skill which distinguishes this regiment at North Shore.

Five Former Champions Competing.

The field includes five ex-champions and a dapper Italian lad from New York named Willie Turnesa. Twelve months ago, at Oakmont, Pa., Willie brought home to one of golf's greatest families its first major championship. Willie, as well as Pa and Ma Turnesa, his six older brothers, all professionals, and his two sisters, aim to retain that distinction, come the end of the fighting Saturday eve.

Turnesa, who was somewhat diffident about the short side of his game in a recent visit to Chicago, has regained confidence in it and is ready for the fray. In winning a recent invitational tournament at Buffalo, N. Y., Will played six consecutive rounds without overreaching par. In his practice rounds here, Willie climaxed consistent play with a 69, three under par, Saturday. Yesterday the champion took a furlough.

The Players Take It Easy.

A spanking northwest wind lashed the course yesterday, but only a minority of the lads were on deck, most of these contenting themselves with hitting practice shots. Several adjourned to Wrigley field for the Cubs-Reds ball game.

Two 69's were submitted by those lads who did work out. One was turned in by Bob Goldwater of Phoenix, Ariz., and then came Joe Thompson of Burlington, Ont. Joe, who is making his ninth appearance in the amateur at the age of 26, had eight birdies in the course of his 69, three putting three greens.

The five ex-champions in the field are Ouimet, winner in 1914 and 1931; Chick Evans of Edgewater, victor in 1916 and 1920; C. Ross [Sandy] Somerville of London, Ont., who scored in 1932; John Fischer of Cincinnati, the 1936 champion, and John Goodman of Omaha, who added the 1937 amateur to the open title of 1933, which he captured at this same North Shore club.

The original field of 171 was reduced by two with the withdrawals of Jess Sweetser, 1922 title holder from New York, and John Langley, former British Walker cup player. No substitutions were required for either of these, since they were exempt from sectional qualifications.

Illness Forces Out Wehrle.

A number of other withdrawals by regular qualifiers were replaced by capable substitutes. Among these absentees were Vincent d'Antoni of New Orleans, 1939 national intercollegiate boss; Paul Leslie of New Orleans, Don Moe of Portland, Ore., and George Voigt of New York. An appendectomy foiled one of the main favorites in the field—Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis. Wehrle has been replaced by Art Floberg, former Beloit college star from Rockford.

The advance galleries refused to be coaxed into any consensus on an individual favorite. If you mentioned Turnesa, there was a rush of such names as Bud Ward, Ray Billows, John Goodman, Sandy Somerville, Art

DERRINGER HITS, PITCHES; WINS 20TH FOR REDS

St. Louis Takes Two; Trails by 3 Games.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Paul Derringer, that big, bad man who thrives on Cub meat, enjoyed one of his periodical feasts yesterday. He toyed with his cousin team after a shaky start, inflicted additional damage with his bat, and generally supervised a 7 to 2 triumph for the pace making Cincinnati Reds before 33,761. But even in their triumph, the leaders lost ground to the pursuing Cardinals whose double success over Pittsburgh moved them to three laps from first place.

Paul Derringer.

As Derringer was spinning his twentieth victory of the year, as well as his fifth over the fading champions, Larry French's streak of five games snapped under pressure from the Rhinelanders' bats. Lefty Larry got away impressively, but his two run lead was short lived. The enemy, paced by a hit from Derringer's bat, crushed him with a blast of four runs in the third and another in the fourth inning. Eventually Larry was removed for a pinch man, and just for the fun of it Derringer drove in two more runs at Vance Page's expense in the eighth.

Eight Cubs Fan.

The only thing wrong with Derringer was that he gave up four hits in the first two innings. It turned out that he was only kidding. Thereafter only a select few came in contact with the bases, partly because of the big fellow's pitching and partly because his defense took on a brilliant hue. After the third, when the Cubs failed to take advantage of an error and a pass, only three reached base. Billy Herman did it twice. He doubled in the fifth, but Galan and Leiber fanned. Billy singled in the seventh and was stranded again. The other hit was Bill Nicholson's single with none out in the sixth. He was still on first when the inning ended.

The Cubs also were considerably disturbed by Derringer's consistent use of the strikeout ball. Twice he took in Glen Russell and Leiber by this method. Galan and French succumbed once each, and two pinch batters, Jim Gleeson and Carl Reynolds, were disposed of in the same way to make a total of eight.

Cubs First to Score.

The Cubs were somewhat fortunate in both halves of the first inning. Galan dropped a fly and French neglected to touch the bag while covering a tap to G. Russell, but a double play on McCormick's bounder to Herman staved off trouble. Then, with one out in the home portion, Herman beat out a hit which caromed off Derringer's shin. Galan sent Herman to third with a single to right and he sneaked home while Derringer was tossing out Leiber. Mancuso's single and French's two bagger made it 2 to 0 in the second.

French got Myers out of the way in the third before the Reds turned loose the bombs which netted four runs. Derringer singled to left and stopped at third on Werber's double to the same sector. Frey also doubled to left, Derringer and Werber scoring. Herman fumbled Galan's throw-in and that was enough to give Frey a free ride to third. He scored on Goodman's single off G. Russell's

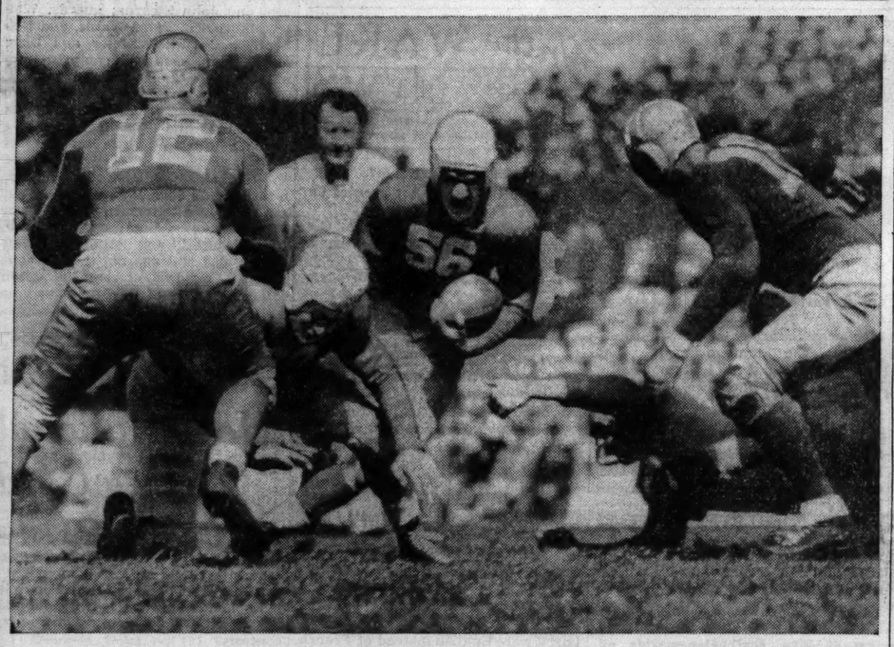
Lions' John Johnson Gives No Ground



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Coley McDonough (No. 56), Chicago Cardinals' half back, finds a hole off tackle in the first half of yesterday's opening game of the National Professional Football league in Detroit, but John Johnson (No. 16), captain and left tackle of the Lions, avoids a blocker and moves in to tackle McDonough after a three yard gain. Playing end for the Lions is Charles Hanneman (No. 12). Detroit won, 21 to 13.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10.—Two quick thrusts in the first period and a fifty-one yard march in the second half enabled the Detroit Lions to open the National Professional Football league season with a 21 to 13 victory over the Chicago Cardinals before 15,075 in the University of Detroit stadium today.

Lloyd Cardwell's seventy yard run from scrimmage and Monk Moscrip's sixty-seven yard sprint after recovering a Cardinal fumble accounted for the first two touchdowns. Johnny Pingel, a rookie from the 1939 TRIBUNE All-Star team, scored the third on the first play of the fourth quarter to end the only sustained march of the game.

Continue Detroit Dominance.

The Lions then outlasted a late passing attack to continue their dominance over the Chicagoans. The Cardinals have not been able to defeat Detroit since Potsy Clark brought the franchise up from Portsmouth in 1934 and changed the team's name from Spartans to Lions.

Until Jack Robbins began throwing passes in the last period, the Cardinals had failed to make an impression against the Detroit team which was introducing the intricate offense of its new coach, Gloomy Gus Henderson. Chicago's attack had appeared woefully weak and its defense repeatedly was pulled out of position by the deceptive ball handling of the Lion backs.

Once Robbins found the range, however, he fired two passes to Capt. Bill Smith for touchdowns and the Cardinals immediately began to threaten the Lions' six year supremacy in the series. One of the touchdown passes went for forty-six yards with Smith outrunning the Lions' secondary in a twenty-five yard sprint to the goal, and the other netted thirty yards after a spectacular catch by the veteran end.

Lions Pile Up 21 to 0 Lead.

Both teams suffered from the customary early season complaints—ragged team work, spotty tackling and blocking and uncertain ball handling. Only one prolonged march was fashioned through the afternoon, the Lions putting together four first downs in their 51 yard advance late in the third period to set up Pingel's three yard off tackle smash for the third Detroit touchdown on the first play of the fourth quarter. The score

Appling Spiked, Out 10 Days; Tigers Win, 5-1; Lose 2d, 11-9

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10.—The White Sox managed to get an even break on the artistic end of their efforts here today, but they suffered more serious losses in the campaign to overtake the second place Red Sox. As a result of a 5 to 1 loss to the Tigers, which preceded an 11 to 9 victory, the Sox now are two and a half games removed from Boston.

The Chicagoans also lost the services of Luke Appling, their shortstop, who will be out of action for at least ten days as a result of a collision with Frank Croucher in the fourth inning of the first game. Croucher spiked Appling just above the right knee and three stitches were required to close the wound. He was sent to Chicago this evening.

Despite competition from the Detroit Lions-Chicago Cardinals' football game, the two games attracted 24,517.

It's a Blow to Rigney.

The first game defeat was a personal blow to young John D. Rigney, who was aiming for his twelfth consecutive victory, a feat that would have tied the best previous effort of the season, made by Atley Donald, the Yankees' freshman pitcher. The Sox also had built up a five game winning streak.

John D. was not a bad pitcher today, but of the six hits he yielded in six innings he stayed, only one was wasted. After Buck Newsom, a notorious front runner, had wiggled out of a first inning jam, in which the Sox had the bases full with only one out, it was indicated that Buck was in command. He surrendered only six hits, three by Gee Walker, who, sadly enough, hit into a double play in that first inning, his only failure at bat during the game.

Parade of Pitchers.

The second game was something of a comedy of errors and parade of pitchers. The Sox came from behind four times before they finally put over the two runs which won the game for them in the eighth inning.

In all, the Chicago team made sixteen hits off five Detroit pitchers, who included Schoolboy Rowe, Al Benton, Dizzy Trout, Luther Thomas, and Archie McKain. Bill Dietrich started the game, but was removed for a pinch hitter in the sixth, whereupon Edgar Smith finished up successfully for his ninth victory against the same number of defeats.

FIRST GAME

A double by Averill and a single by Gehringer gave the Tigers a one run lead in the first inning.

The Tigers added their second and third runs in the third inning. With one out McCosky reached second on a single and Kreevich's fumble. Averill walked and, after Gehringer had fouled to Radcliff, Greenberg doubled to left, scoring McCosky and Averill.

The fourth run was rung up by

Hunt Defeats Crawford in National Meet

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—Joe Hunt, Annapolis midshipman, scored the most notable victory in the national tennis tournament at Forest Hills today when he eliminated Jack Crawford, Australian Davis cup veteran, 6-1, 3-6, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Only seven men's and seven women's matches were played before a disappointing crowd as tournament officials began to spread their programs very thin to make them last through another week. The top stars—Bobby Riggs, Frankie Parker, Adrian Quist, and Jack Bromwich—were kept out of sight.

Play on Rough Court.

The court was damp to begin with, and after Hunt's spikes had churned the turf for a few sets the place looked like a construction project. No two balls bounced quite alike, and this appeared to upset Crawford.

The day's second best victory was scored by Edward Alloo of Berkeley, Cal., who signalized his presence two days ago by beating Gene Mako in straight sets. Today Alloo trimmed Ladislav Hecht, former Czech Davis cup star, 6-4, 9-11, 1-6, 8-6, 6-0.

In other third round matches Frank Guernsey Jr. of Orlando, Fla., beat Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Cal., national junior champion, 6-3, 6-3, 8-6; Harry Hopman of Australia defeated Ronald Lubin of Los Angeles, 6-4, 0-6, 9-7, 6-3; Bryan Grant Jr. of Atlanta beat Robert Decker of Boston, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2; Bill Talbert of Cincinnati defeated David Freeman of Pasadena, 6-1, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2, and Donald McNeill of Oklahoma City eliminated Russell Bobbitt of Atlanta, 6-1, 9-7, 6-1.

Alice Marble Advances.

There was even less excitement in the women's division. Alice Marble lost no games and very, very few points in polishing off Dorothy Wightman, 6-0, 6-0, to reach the third round. Helen Jacobs, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, and Kay Stammers were idle.

After trailing, 3 to 5, in the first set Mary Hardwick of England recovered to beat Marilynn McRae of Little Rock, Ark., 7-5, 6-2. Betty Nuthall of England defeated Helen Pederson of Stamford, Conn., 6-3, 4-6, 8-6; Mrs. Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., beat Katherine Winthrop of Boston, 7-5, 6-2; Mrs. Freda James Hammersley of England won from Patricia Hover of California, 6-1, 6-2; Virginia Wolfenden of San Francisco beat Eunice Dean of San Antonio, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, and Mary Arnold of Los Angeles defeated Sissy Madden of Jamaica Plain, Mass., 6-4, 6-3.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Tad Wieman, head coach at Princeton, predicts a decline in the caliber of Ivy league football this fall. . . . "Dartmouth will miss MacLeod, Howe, Gibson, and Zitrides," he remarked, "and Columbia's offense hardly will be as formidable without Luckman and Siedel." . . . Yale expects a mediocre season, and so does Harvard. . . . Dick Harlow, however, has several sophomores who may develop sufficiently to make the Crimson a strong team by midseason. . . . Princeton will be somewhat improved, Wieman hopes, but it will have substantially the same talent as last fall. . . . Carl Snavely lost most of his 1938 starting lineup at Cornell, but his squad was rich in reserves and both Wieman and Lou Little of Columbia inform this department that Cornell will be the team to beat. . . . Jimmy Crowley isn't saying much about his Fordham club, but those in the know predict Fordham and Carnegie Tech will be the best teams in the east. . . . The service schools will be stronger than last year, especially Army. . . .

Owners of teams in the eastern half of the National Professional Football league are in favor of eliminating all pre-season All-Star games with the exception of Chicago's. . . . The neighborhood contests are interfering seriously with the early games in the league schedule. . . . The Chicago Cardinals, for example, got little service today out of two outstanding recruits, Marshall Goldberg and Ki Aldrich, because of their participation in September All-Star games. . . . Ed Sullivan, THE TRIBUNE'S Hollywood columnist, is making such a hit with his Harvest Moon ball winners in a Broadway theater they have held him over another week. . . . Bert Lahr, stage and screen comedian, thinks football is rougher than boxing. . . . He tried it out in high school. . . . Dan Topping, owner of the Brooklyn Football Dodgers, is high on two newcomers, Roland Young, an end, and Clarence Manders, a back, who joined his squad after the Chicago All-Star game. . . . Harry Stuhldreher plans to increase the seating capacity of Randall field at Madison to 55,000 within a year or two. . . . Bill Corum, New York sports writer, was a major in the world war at the age of 23. . . .

After 36 Years Jersey City Wins Baseball Title

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—The International league's fifty-sixth campaign came to a close today with the Jersey City Giants undisputed champions, but with Newark and Syracuse tied for fourth and a place in the Governors' cup playoffs. The Bears and Chiefs, each of whom split a double-header today, will play a single game in Newark tomorrow night.

The Governors' cup series will open Tuesday. The winner will receive $4,000 and the right to meet the American association winner in the little world series.

Jersey City clinched the championship Thursday and finished the season with eighty-nine victories and sixty-four defeats. It was the first pennant in thirty-six years for the New York Giants' farm and broke a two year reign by the Yankee-owned Newark club.

Rochester finished second, Buffalo third, Baltimore sixth, Montreal seventh and Toronto eighth.

CUYLER LEADS CHATTANOOGA TO LEAGUE PENNANT

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 10 (AP). — The Chattanooga Lookouts won the Southern association pennant today in the closest finish of the 38 year old league's history. The Lookouts defeated the last place New Orleans, 6 to 2 and 4 to 2, while Memphis, their only threat in the final day's play, lost, 11 to 3, to Nashville. The pennant was Chattanooga's first since 1932. Kiki Cuyler, former Chicago Cub outfielder, is Chattanooga's manager.

Chattanooga ended the season with 85 games won and 65 lost for a percentage of .567.

The game was played between games of the Boston Red Sox-Athletic double-header. Policemen wearing the uniforms of the 1910 era patrolled the field. Connie Mack, baseball's grand old man; Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Landis, and American League President Will Harridge watched from among the crowd of 23,235.

The 1910 team scored all of its six runs with two out in the second. Three of the runs were walked in with the bases full.

Among the stars who performed were Amos Strunk, Topsy Hartsel, Eddie Collins, Frank [Home Run] Baker, Stuffy McInnis, Eddie Murphy, Jack Barry, Ira Thomas, Chief Bender, Jack Coombs, Paddy Livingston, Ben Egan, Cy Morgan, Harry Davis, Wally Schang, Herb Pennock, Dave Danforth, Ben Houser, Rube Oldring, Carroll Brown, Joe Bush, Morrie Rath, Dan Murphy, Stan Coveleski, Rube Bressler, Max Bishop, Mule Haas, Mickey Cochrane, Bing Miller, Jimmy Dykes, Joe Boley, Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg, George Earnshaw, Cy Perkins, Howard Ehmke, Walter French, Jack Quinn, and Ed Rommel.

Otto Dreher successfully defended the Lutz trophy, Q class championship award for Lake Michigan yachts, with his sloop Lively Lady, off Jackson park yesterday.

After winning the opening race Saturday by a wide margin, Lively Lady captured the second event yesterday morning in 1 hour 55 minutes and 38 seconds. William Wachsman's Columbia Yacht club entry, Hope, was runnerup in 1:58:40, followed by Eldred Stephenson's Milwaukee Yacht club yacht, Stephia, in 2;00:01.

Gloriant Wins Final.

Gloriant, Anthony Herrmann's Racine Yacht club Q boat, won the third and final race yesterday in 1:25:50, followed by Stephia, 1:26:20; Hope, 1:27:23, and Lively Lady, 1:28:50.

Lively Lady won the championship for the South Shore [Milwaukee] Yacht club for the third season, with a total score of 15 points. Gloriant was a close second with 14 points.

Shamrock Sweeps Series.

Shamrock, John P. O'Rourke's fifty foot sloop, won the first Lake Michigan 8 meter class championship by sweeping all three series races for the title. Shamrock won the first race Saturday, the second yesterday morning in 2 hours 3 minutes and 45 seconds, and the third yesterday afternoon in 1:34:37. To Shamrock's nine points, Al Newman's Green Spot won five points and Al Peuquet's Apt had four.

Step-N-Fetchit, sailed by Richard and William Otter, won the Sheridan Shore Yatch club's Star class race yesterday off Wilmette harbor. The winning time for the nine mile triangular course was 55 minutes and 15 seconds, one of the fastest average speeds of the season. Gemini, John T. Pirie II., and S. C. Pirie Jr.'s entry, was second in 55:24, followed by Little Audrey, Ted Mead's sloop, in 56:58.

OAK BROOK WINS IN ROUND ROBIN POLO TOURNEY

Oak Brook's polo team gained two claims to first honors yesterday in an invitation round robin tournament at the Oak Brook stadium field, winning the title officially on total points and avoiding dispute by winning both its games.

The host team scored twelve goals to nine for Rising Sun Ranch and seven for the Onwentsia club, each team playing three periods against each other.

Lions Defeat Cards, 21 to 13, in Pro Opener

thus became 21 to 0 as Moscrip added the extra point for the third time.

The Cardinals, making their first start under their new coach, Ernie Nevers, an old Cardinal star who practically single handed carried them to their only championship nearly a decade ago, attempted to run against a harder charging Lion line with a single wing back offense during the first half. The Lions meantime were piling up yardage from an offense in which the backs assume the position of the Notre Dame offense behind an unbalanced line and seemingly keep running into each other throughout every play.

Fool Cards' Secondary.

It was off this offense that Cardwell, once of Nebraska and THE TRIBUNE's All-Star team, swept back from his position on the wing, ran between Bill Shepherd and Pingel in the tail back places, and set out around the Cardinals for seventy yards in the first period. Smith had anticipated the play and took a shot at Cardwell back of the line, but missed.

The Cardinals' secondary was completely fooled, however, and Cardwell had little trouble racing down the sidelines behind the expert blocking of John Wiethe, a rookie guard from Xavier in Cincinnati, and Alex Wojciechowicz, the Lions' veteran center.

A few minutes later the Cardinals, who had rallied sufficiently from this blow to earn their first first down, became confused on a signal and John Adams' pass from center rolled free. Moscrip beat George Faust, the Cardinals' new quarter back from Minnesota and the 1939 All-Star team, in a race for the ball and sidestepped Faust's desperate flying tackle to run sixty-seven yards to the goal line.

Pingel Leads Long March.

Before Robbins and Smith could get together to put the Cardinals back in the game, the Lions increased their lead with Pingel's touchdown. The former Michigan State half back gave his best performance in this foray, which began on the Lions' 46 yard line where Faust's punt had been killed.

Pingel hit the line for gains of five, six, and sixteen yards and passed six yards to Shepherd, who shared the ball carrying with him in the advance. He placed the ball in a position for the score with a sixteen yard run wide around the Cardinals' left end, faking a pass all the way as he circled back and came up along the sidelines to the four yard line.

Smith's first touchdown came six plays later. Jimmy Lawrence brought the kickoff back twenty yards to the 32 yard line. Smith was knocked down by Wojciechowicz attempting to field a pass and the Cardinals were given a first down on interference with a nine yard gain. A Detroit offside moved it up five more yards. Robbins could not find a receiver and ran six yards to the Lions' 46 yard line. Then Robbins passed to Smith, who eluded two defenders and raced to a touchdown. Buddy Parker's attempted place kick for extra point was blocked.

Jim McDonald, Pingel, and Paul Szakash covered Smith on the second Cardinal touchdown, all going up with the veteran on the ball. Smith was the only one who landed on his feet, and in his arms he held the ball. Pivoting out of the mass, he went eight yards to complete a thirty yard gain and score. His attempt for extra point was good.

The game introduced to professional football a score of new men, among whom Faust, Ki Aldrich, the Texas Christian and All-Star center, and Keith Birlem of San José State stood out for the Cardinals.

The Lions' superiority was reflected in the statistics, where they led the Cardinals in first downs, nine to six, and outgained them by rushing 198 yards to forty-nine. They threw only six passes and completed only one, the six yard toss from Pingel to Shepherd in the second half touchdown march. The Cardinals attempted sixteen passes, completing six for 106 yards and had one intercepted.

Challedon to Arrive Today for Cup Race

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Challedon, a leading contender for No. 1 rating among the 3 year olds and also in the handicap division, is due to arrive from the east today to prepare for the $15,000 Gold Cup race next Saturday at Hawthorne.

With the announcement that Charles S. Howard will not send Kayak II. into the race, Challedon was established as the strong favorite. He is popular with Chicago race fans because it was here that he gave the greatest performance of his career when he won the $30,000 Classic stakes at Arlington Park. In that event he disposed of Johnstown and later he beat Kayak II., reigning king of the handicap division. A victory in the Hawthorne Gold Cup race will strengthen his position as a candidate for top honors.

Two Others Coming.

War Minstrel and Blind Eagle, two of Mrs. Emil Denemark's eligibles for the Gold Cup race, will arrive with Challedon. They have been campaigning at Narragansett. War Minstrel established himself as an upset horse by beating Seabiscuit in the Stars and Stripes handicap last year at Arlington Park.

During the nine years of its history, the Hawthorne Gold cup race has nearly always been won by one of the greatest horses of the year. Sun Beau captured it three times. Display, Equipoise, Discovery, and Esposa were among the other winners. Challedon's handlers have high hopes that he will add his name to this distinguished list.

Get Three Stake Winners.

The first week of the Hawthorne meeting brought forward three stake winners, Potranco taking the Labor Day handicap and Allegro and Bob's Boy accounting for the Speed handicap and the President's Trophy races on Saturday.

Racing Secretary Julius Reeder has allotted weights so judiciously that wide open betting and close finishes have marked the early days of the meeting. On one occasion all nine horses in a race were spread out head and head an eighth of a mile from the finish, coming down the stretch like a cavalry charge.

BLUE RIBBONS SCORE 3,056; WIN 2 LEAGUE GAMES

The Pabst Blue Ribbons bowled 3,056 last night in the opening of the Sunday division of the Classic league, and won two games from the Monarchs at the Idle Hour Recreation. The Pabsts shot 1,041, 1,029, and 986 and the Monarchs totaled 845, 1,090, and 983. The Pragers took two games from the Ambrosias. The Michelobs won all three from the Power House Candies, and the Schlitz defeated the Koenigs twice.

Ned Day, America's match game champion and member of the Pabst team totaled 676 for high individual series, and Bill Flesch turned in a 268 game for the Monarchs. Scores:

Ambition.

Once upon a time I thought I'd be
An artist—a celebrity.
I wrote a sonnet—a song or two;
I painted pictures, just a few,
And then I thought I'd write a book—
Instead, it seems I learned to cook.
The years have gone—dreams unfulfilled,
Few things came true that I had willed—
Yet there's a boy whose hungry eyes
Tell me, he's glad I make good pies.

WALGREEN DRUG STORES

Doughty 33 Start Drill at U. of Chicago

The University of Chicago football squad which assembled last night on the Midway to accomplish such routine matters as physical examinations and weighing in, will begin seventeen days of practice this morning hoping for the best. Thirty-three players, constituting not only the smallest squad in the Western conference, but also a new low at Chicago in twenty years, equal three full teams on paper but are not likely to win championships.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy will begin the polishing process slowly this morning by giving light workouts and setting forth training rules.

The small Maroon roster does not fairly indicate the size of the playing organization, Coach Shaughnessy believes. Last year with a roster half again as large, only about twenty-five players were of college caliber.

YANKS TAKE TWO FROM SENATORS AIDED BY HOMERS

Long Hits Beat Leonard in Second Game.

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—The Yankees stretched their winning streak to eight games today by sweeping a double-header from the Washington Senators, 4 to 3 and 6 to 2.

All the champions' runs in the first game were bunched in the second inning on a walk, three singles, and a triple by Red Rolfe. Four home runs by the Yankees made the second game a rout in spite of some good pitching by Dutch Leonard, who had beaten New York four times and lost just once.

MOON MULLINS—INNER THOUGHTS

Cards Take Both Games from Pirates

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 10 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals gained a half-game on the league leading Cincinnati Reds today by taking both games of a double-header from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9 to 3 and 11 to 4. The Cards pounded out a total of twenty-eight hits to the Pirates' twenty-seven to cut the Reds' lead to three games.

The Pirates presented a makeshift lineup in both games, using an outfielder at third base, Maurice Van Robays in the first and Fern Bell in the second. Bell had three errors. In the first game, Curt Davis chalked up his twentieth victory.

Doc Lotshaw's Mad Dash Costs Him a Cool $25

Doc Andrew Lotshaw, Cub trainer, is in high dudgeon. Andy so completely forgot baseball etiquet during Saturday's game that he dashed on the field to join in the protest to Umpire Barr about Gabby Hartnett's two base hit being a homer. Andy's little speech cost him $25. The wire from National league headquarters also advised him "in the future mind your own business." Sympathetic players took up a collection in the trainer's behalf. It netted nine pennies.

The Cubs' workshop will be closed today, but they'll be back on the job tomorrow in the first of a two game series with the Boston Bees.

The Reds don't know whether to feel pleased or worried over the fact that their remaining schedule includes seven double-headers, all of them on their home lot. Six of these twin bills are equally divided among the Pirates, Giants, and Bees. The other is with the Cardinals.

Women Tee Off Today in Derby Play

Feminine golf's longest medal play event—the eleventh annual Derby of the Women's Western Golf association—starts this morning at the Evanston Golf club with one of the fastest fields in its history. Eighteen holes will be played today, with eighteen more scheduled for tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Although Patty Berg of Minneapolis, Minn., who set a record 72 hole score of 308 in winning last year's tournament at Butterfield will not compete, practically every other star in the game is entered. Heading the list of favorites is Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., who outdistanced Miss Berg to win the Derbies of 1935, 1936, and 1937.

She will have quite a chore on her hands if she wins her fourth Derby in five years. The Chicago delegation alone should furnish its share of contention to the Kentucky professional's daughter. Among the local challengers are Ellamae Williams of Medinah, state and district champion; Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge, twice district winner; Mrs. Lillian Zech of Tam O' Shanter, Eleanor Dudley of Ridge, and Shirley Ann Johnson of Sunset Ridge.

From out of town comes even a more formidable troupe. Among the visitors are Edith Estabrooks of Dubuque, Ia., who registers from Ridge; Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga., runner up for this year's national championship; Dorothy Traung of San Francisco, Cal.; Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis; Marion McDougall of Portland, Ore., and Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Cal.

Doering, Charley Yates, Dick Chapman, Harry Givan, Eddie Meister, Johnny Fischer, Bobby Dunkelberger, Frank Strafaci, and Gus Moreland.

All of these are established competitors, but there is a younger group just coming up which may figure in the struggle before it's over. Among these are Warren Berl of San Francisco, Skip Alexander and Bobby Brownell of Duke university, and Walter Burkemo of Evanston. And a Hot Springs hotel clerk named Frank Stiedle has been causing considerable blinking in the practice rounds by the manner in which he larrups his drives.

Turnesa Plays This Afternoon.

Turnesa will tee off at 1:50 o'clock this afternoon. His partner will be the long hitting Harry Givan, former Walker cup player from Seattle, Wash.

The low 130 scorers and ties for today's eighteen holes will qualify for tomorrow's final eighteen holes of medal play. The low sixty-four shooters for the two days of medal competition will enter the match play bracket, which will get under way Wednesday with two eighteen hole battles. Two more eighteen hole rounds will be played Thursday, reducing the field to the semi-finalists, who play two thirty-six hole matches on Friday. Saturday's championship match also will be at thirty-six holes.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

GOOSESTEPPING NAZI INDUSTRY PACED FOR WAR

Inured to Iron Hand of Government.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Sept. 10 [Special].—For the six and a half years it has been in power, the National Socialist [Nazi] government has been preparing the German nation for an emergency such as the present one.

Regimentation has not been confined to civil life, but progressively spread to industrial life, with the result that today the entire resources of the nation are at the disposal of the government for the pursuit of war.

When National Socialism assumed control, the government immediately began putting Germany on military economy. To do this it was necessary thoroughly to discipline the population. This was accomplished through propaganda aimed at impressing upon German minds that the fatherland was surrounded by an enemy world from which it could protect itself only by exacting great sacrifices from its citizens to make Germany invincible.

Wages Fixed, Taxes High.

The civil population did, therefore, in time become accustomed to not being able to buy many foodstuffs and other commodities, as well as having fixed wages and high taxes, with labor subject to conscription for the "national urgent task."

While this process was progressing, the government was gradually extending its control over industry. Raw materials were distributed and available labor allocated according to the government's interpretation of national requirements. Prices for finished products were officially fixed and foreign trade rigidly regulated.

Many expert commissions were organized to study national war economy and the place to be filled by each industry. Methods for complete regimentation were provided.

The new war economy decree issued last week, therefore, merely tightened the existing methods of control. This was all that was necessary to make the transition from the military economy under which the nation had lived for many years to the present war economy.

Order Salaries, Prices Cut.

The new decree provides for a reduction in wages and salaries with a proportional reduction in the prices of raw products and commodities. Production costs have been studied by an expert commission of both government and military officials for many years and new price scales will be based on their findings.

No essential industries are to be drastically curtailed or eliminated. Labor and raw materials are to be directed to industries essential in war.

Few objections are anticipated, either from labor or industry, because failure to coöperate with the government is held to be sabotage and as such punishable through the death of the offender.

Commissions Powerful.

Financial circles here assert that the German government of 1939 understands more about war economy and inflation than the reich government in 1914. To prevent any war inflation tendency, they add, the government established permanent commissions to study labor and industrial problems. These commissions, which now have almost absolute power in the industries in which they specialize, will determine wages, salaries, prices, and amount of production. The penalty for infringements, officials say, will obviate serious difficulties in getting the plan fully functioning with the efficiency with which it did in a limited way heretofore.

Retail Trade a Problem.

Most difficulty is foreseen in the retail trade. Many retail products, particularly foodstuffs, may now be bought only in limited quantities and then upon the presentation of a ration card.

Operating costs remain constant in these retail organizations, while volume and consequently earnings, are drastically cut.

The German securities exchanges are controled by the government indirectly through the large banks which constantly buy or sell to prevent serious fluctuations. Last week price recessions were held within moderate bounds.

RAILS SUSPEND THROUGH OCEAN BILLS OF LADING

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 10 [Special.].—Walter S. Franklin, a vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, today confirmed a report that eastern trunk line railroads have suspended the issuance of uniform "through ocean" export bills of lading to points where shipping has been generally discontinued because of war conditions.

Under this type of bill of lading, which has been used widely by interior manufacturers and distributors in shipping goods overseas, the railroad contracts to deliver the goods to outbound freighters.

Railroad men declared that suspension of the through ocean export bills should not be viewed as restriction on the movement of freight to seaboard points, because local export bills of lading will continue to be written. The step was taken, one source said, to relieve the roads of liability in cases where ships cannot be found to complete the shipments.

WORLD BANK'S IN A PICKLE; NAZIS INCREASE SHARE

BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 10 (AP).—Officials of the Bank for International Settlements, worrying about how they can get Britain, Germany, France, and Poland together for the Oct. 1 board meeting, announced today Germany had taken over another 4,000 shares of the bank—those held formerly by the Bank of Danzig.

German holdings in the international bank now are 31,700 shares. Originally Germany had 19,000 shares, the same as Britain, Belgium, France, Italy, Japan, and the United States. Germany got the rest of her shares by absorption first of Austria, then Czecho-Slovakia, and, finally, Danzig. Poland also has 4,000 shares. The bank has a total of 200,000 shares.

The directors are puzzled principally about the next meeting. There were indications today they might decide, "let's call the whole thing off."

STRIKE OF 3,000 AT BENDIX PLANT IN SO. BEND ENDS

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 10 [Special].—Three thousand employés will return to their jobs in the Bendix plant tomorrow morning, ending a strike which has kept the plant idle since Aug. 31. Members of the C. I. O. auto union tonight approved an agreement union leaders made with the plant management after 24 hours of conferences.

Basis for the settlement was agreement by the company to give the C. I. O. a contract for one year, grant one week vacations with pay and seniority rights. This will be the first contract the union ever had with the company.

Return of the Bendix workers will result in the reopening of two automobile factories and the return to work of about 19,000 men in the Packard Motor plant in Detroit and Nash plants in Wisconsin, which shut down last week because of a lack of parts.

STEEL'S HIGHS.

What is the all time high of United States Steel common stock? How high did the stock go in the bull market of 1929? How high did it go during the world war?—G. D.

POWER WARANTS.

Please give me some information on Niagara Hudson Power class A warants.—L. D.

Answer: Class A stock option warants of Niagara Hudson Power corporation entitle their holders to purchase common stock at $105 a share until Oct. 1, 1944. With the common now selling well below $10 a share, holders of the warants appear to have little chance of realizing any value on them.

CO-OPS' LEADER ASKS JUNKING OF TRADE TREATIES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 [Special].—John D. Miller, president of the National Coöperative council, an organization of agricultural coöperatives, said today he fears that the proposed reciprocal trade treaty with Argentina will react unfavorably to American agriculture. He charged trade treaties contribute to farm product surpluses and urged that such agreements be terminated.

He said a study of various trade agreements showed that the United States was required by these treaties to "receive many forms of agricultural products" of which it already has surpluses "so large that they have a continual price depressing effect."

He asserted that the "policies of the government are conflicting and illogical in that some of the departments are paying farmers to reduce production, thus reducing surpluses, while the department of state, in making these agreements, causes a material increase in the imports of like farm products, thus increasing surpluses."

CANADIAN CATTLE EXPORT QUOTA IS NEARLY FILLED

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 10 (AP).—The market branch of the Canadian agriculture department announced tonight that 95.5 per cent of the third quarter cattle quota exports from Canada to the United States under the Canada-United States trade treaty has been filled.

Because the quota is nearly filled, the full 3 cents a pound rate of the American duty will be applied starting tomorrow. The former rate was 1½ cents a pound. The 3 cent rate is subject to rebate on any cattle which go into the United States before the full quota of 51,720 head is taken up.

Canadian exports of cattle to the United States from July 1 to Sept. 7 totaled 47,838. The third quarter ends Sept. 30.

Europe's War Brings Violent Rise in Grains

Readjustment of grain markets to a wartime basis last week was accompanied by wide price fluctuations. Veteran traders said the upturn, as represented by the difference between the low point of Aug. 30 and the highest prices of last week, was one of the most violent in the history of organized grain exchanges.

September wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade advanced 22¾ cents and corn 17¾ cents from the low of the preceding week, and lard was up $2.42½ per 100 pounds during the same period. The Winnipeg market led the advance in grain, with October wheat soaring 29¾ cents in seven trading days. The upturns in the market this year have been far greater than in 1914.

Remember War Prices.

Buying of grain futures recently has been stimulated by remembrance of the record prices of $2 or more a bushel paid for wheat during the latter part of the world war, brokers said. The fact that the aggregate available supply of wheat for the 1939-'40 season is more than 1 billion in excess of that for 1914-'15 has been ignored, it was said.

Drastic regulations have been placed in effect in many European countries in an effort to curtail purchases of foreign grains and foodstuffs. In the United Kingdom the foreign trade in cereals and cereal products is now in the hands of a food controler, the department of agriculture reported. Under the British government ruling all dealings in cereals and their products outside of the United Kingdom are prohibited except under license.

Report on Corn Crop Today.

A government estimate will be given to the trade today on the 1939 corn crop, with operators looking for it to show about 2,500,000,000 bushels. This is about 40,000,000 bushels in excess of the official estimate a month ago and compares with 2,542,000,000 bushels harvested in 1938.

The aggregate amount of corn available for use during the 1939-'40 season will not be known until October, when the government will issue a report estimating the amount of old grain remaining in farmers' hands. The carryover in the hands of producers on Oct. 1 is expected to be about 550,000,000 bushels, which with the crop of about 2,500,000,000 bushels would give a total supply of more than 3,000,000,000 bushels. This would be the largest supply in 13 years.

RETAILER GROUP PLEDGES FIGHT ON WAR PROFITEERS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The American Retail federation today gave President Roosevelt a pledge that it will do everything possible to discourage "war profiteering" in the retail business.

David R. Craig, president of the federation, transmitted the pledge to the chief executive in a letter which said the organization desired to "place its entire facilities at the disposal of the national government in the event of a serious crises."

The National Retail Dry Goods association received a request from Mr. Roosevelt yesterday to coöperate in protecting the public from "unwaranted" price increases as a result of the European war. Lew Hahn, general manager, said the association was in "complete agreement" with the President.

Plenty of Coffee, No Price Boost, Store Chain Asserts

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company in an announcement today said "no shortage of coffee and no rise in coffee prices in the United States appears likely, despite the war in Europe." Present coffee stocks in this country, the announcement added, are ample, and "normal shipping facilities are being maintained with Central America and South America, which supply virtually all the coffee consumed in the United States."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 10.—Wall street had a lively time last week as the stock market attuned itself to war conditions and values climbed in sensational fashion. Numerous issues soared to their best prices of the year and gains ran from two points in the general list to more than twenty points in the war issues.

Volume picked up to the accompaniment of rising prices, and the financial district spent its busiest week in nearly two years. Total sales for the five days—the market was closed for the Labor day holiday—totaled 17,539,360 shares, the largest for any week since that which ended Oct. 23, 1937.

Billions Added to Paper Values.

The war issues occupied the center of the stage. After registering spectacular gains in the fore part of the week they ran into selling by traders anxious to convert paper profits into cash, but the gains many showed at the close Saturday were still of spectacular proportions. It was estimated that since the start of the war $4,600,000,000 had been added to the paper value of the list.

Tuesday's market was by far the most feverish of the week. During the long week-end orders had piled up for stocks, and France and Great Britain had declared war on Germany.

Prices boomed from the opening bell as the market turned back the clock to the wild days of the late 1920s. United States Steel could not be opened until after 11 o'clock.

Orders for steels, chemicals, sugars, aviations, metals, and textiles flowed in from every section of the country. Closing prices were $5 to $27 higher.

Bethlehem Steel Soars.

Wednesday the market closed mixed as some traders reached for profits. Thursday the market moved cautiously and the closing was irregularly higher. On Friday stocks advanced sharply to the best levels of the year, with gains running to $5. Saturday the market continued strong and active.

The most favored stocks have been the steels. Bethlehem moved up 34¾ points from its low of the preceding Friday to last Saturday's close and finished last week with a gain of 20½ points. United States Steel gained 16½ points.

Other spectacular gainers included Allied Chemical. It rose 23½, Anaconda advanced 7, Monsanto 10½, American Smelting 11, du Pont 15½, Union Carbide 8⅛, Fajardo Sugar 8⅜, Vanadium Steel 8, Republic Steel 6¼, and General Motors 6⅞.

Not all groups took part in the wide advances. Utilities, which are not expected to benefit as a result of the war, showed only insignificant price changes.

OUTPUT OF STEEL RISING TO MEET WARTIME NEEDS

Heavy steel buying following the opening of hostilities in Europe caused steel production to snap back sharply from the Labor day letdown last week, the magazine Steel said yesterday. With mills heavily booked on many products into October, the national steelmaking rate is scheduled to rise to a new 1939 high this week, the survey said.

The flood of inquiries for steel reflects fear of higher prices later in the year, good prospects for domestic consumption, and large inquiries by neutral nations whose normal sources of steel supply have been cut off by the war.

Steel producers refused to be stampeded, however, and considerable business offered at current prices for future delivery was turned down, the survey said. Steelmakers adopted a policy of selling on the basis of the price prevailing at the time of shipment, and even this business has sometimes been limited to regular customers.

Steel's scrap composite price climbed 29 cents a ton to $15.79, the highest mark in nearly two years.

COTTON CLIMBS IN RESPONSE TO WAR DEMANDS

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—Cotton futures scored sensational advances in the New York Cotton exchange last week. At the high point active old futures were up approximately 190 points from the low mark of the preceding Saturday. Despite a sharp reaction, at the close Saturday they showed net advances for the week of 64 to 89 points, or $3.20 to $4.45 a bale. Trading was extremely heavy.

The rise clearly resulted from the outbreak of war in Europe, brokers said. Domestic mills were reported to have sold during the week a volume of goods equal to ten to twelve weeks' output, and they were consequently forced to buy an extremely large volume of cotton. Speculative buying, small for some years, expanded greatly.

Recall Former War Market.

Traders recalled that when the world war began prices of cotton broke sharply, and not until a year or two later did they rise to the phenomenally high levels reached in the later war years.

The market broke from the highs when the department of agriculture on Friday issued its new estimate of the domestic crop, which showed an increase of nearly one million bales over the previous estimate. The decline in prices after the report was made public, however, was only a minor portion of the previous advance.

The large sales of cotton goods by domestic mills pointed clearly to a substantial increase in cotton mill activity and domestic consumption of the staple.

Prices of Goods Advance.

Prices of goods advanced more than prices of cotton, with the result manufacturing margins were widened.

The outlook for exports of cotton, however, became less favorable with the outbreak of war in Europe, cotton men said. Countries of central Europe, which use some 600,000 bales of cotton were cut off from supplies of the staple. The cost of moving cotton from this country to Europe has been greatly increased by advances in freight rates and war risk insurance.

George O. Everett, president of the association and public relations director of the First Citizens Bank and Trust company of Utica, N. Y., will preside at the four day convention.

OFFER EVIDENCE ON GAS PIPE LINE EFFECT ON COAL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The interior department's bituminous coal division announced today it had applied for permission to present evidence in a Kentucky-Indiana natural gas pipe line case pending before the federal power commission.

The proceeding involves the application of the General Gas Pipe Line corporation of Indianapolis for permission to construct and operate an interstate natural gas pipe line from natural gas fields in Hart county, Ky., to a terminus in Hamilton county, Ind.

In its petition for the right to intervene, the coal division said it wanted to present evidence to show the effect which the proposed pipe line would have on the national public interest.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by HOMER ONEISZ

Try Alfalfa Silage

Sept. 10, 1939.

ALFALFA silage has proved disappointing in recent feeding trials at the Du Page county farm. This is the first year it has been tried there. The silage is being fed to dairy cows. Rather, it is being offered to them in the hope that they soon will learn to like it.

The cows refused to touch the alfalfa silage when it first was given to them about two weeks ago. Some ground grain was sprinkled over the silage in an attempt to coax the cows to eat it. Still they refused.

The herdsmen were as persistent in their efforts to get the cows to eat the silage as the cows were in rejecting it. The silage was put before the cows night and morning. Gradually they began to eat small amounts of it. Now all except two of them are eating about ten pounds each a day. Two cows still refuse to eat any.

Often Are Stubborn.

The men will continue to feed the silage. They know that dairy cows, like other kinds of live stock, often are slow to accept a new kind of feed. Steers brought from ranges in the west sometimes refuse corn and other farm feeds until they are forced to it.

The cows were started on the alfalfa silage after all of last year's corn silage had been fed. Pastures were getting short and it was thought that the alfalfa silage would make an ideal substitute for the green forage of the pastures. So far it has not worked out.

Beet pulp and dry hay are being fed to supplement the silage. The plan is to gradually reduce the amounts of these feeds as the cows increase their consumption of silage. The herd is being fed the usual ration of grain.

Milk production of the herd has dropped nearly twenty per cent since the cows were started on the alfalfa silage. Production likely would have dropped noticeably, even if the cows had eaten the silage, because of short pastures. Hot, dry weather last week and the week before left pastures dry and brown.

Some Silage Spoils.

There was considerable spoilage of the alfalfa in the silo. Nearly two feet had to be thrown off the top. The silage has been fed down an additional two feet and there still is a ring of spoiled silage about a foot through around the outer edge next to the silo wall. There is no way yet of knowing how far down this may extend. Corn sirup was used at the rate of nearly 100 pounds to the ton as a preservative when the silo was filled.

In theory, alfalfa silage should make an ideal roughage for dairy cattle because of its high protein content and the fact that it is a fairly close approach to green feed, such as the cows would get on good pasture. Well preserved alfalfa silage is said to be rich in carotin, a substance that adds to the yellow color of cream and is closely associated with vitamin A. More farmers through this section put up alfalfa silage this season than ever before.
